AMERICAN INVENTIONS IN INDIA.

Something of Interest to all Americans.

A Calcutta letter says that American inventions and discoveries are fast displacing the older ones of English manufacture in the Indian Empire. Thus, a few years ago, the American harvesters and reapers were entirely unknown, where now there are many. The American telephone has been introduced in most of the large cities. Stranger than all, the old-fashioned, huge pills are fast giving place to Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, or "P. P. P.," which were first introduced in London some years ago by their American proprietors. Every Englishman who enjoys good eating, must have his dinner-pill, and it is not unusual to see distinguished persons draw from their waistcoats a tiny little vial of these Pellets, and take one with their wine.

After taking one you feel well, instead of bilious and constipated; your sick headache, dizziness and indigestion are gone. It's done mildly and easily, too. These are tiny, sugar-coated, but thorough in results. One Pellet's laxative, three to four are cathartic. They regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels—quickly, but thoroughly. They are guaranteed to give satisfaction.

THE CASE STATED

Report From the Advisory Committee.

The Workingmen Own the Right to Work,

And Carnegie Cannot Deny it to Them.

They Made His Fortune for Him,

And All They Ask In Return is to be Able to Make an Honest Living by the Hardest Kind of Toil.

Homestead, Pa., July 22.—The advisory committee on the Homestead lockout has prepared a statement of its position in which the committee signifies its recognition of law and other peaceful means as the only elements that should have part in the settlement of the present trouble, and pledges itself and the workingmen of Homestead to refrain from violence and lawlessness.

The full text of the statement is as follows:

"The most evident characteristic of our time and country is the phenomenon of industrial centralization, which is putting the control of each of our great national industries into the hands of one man, or a few men, and giving these men an enormous and despotic power over the lives and fortunes of their employes and subordinates—the great mass of people; a power which eviscerates our national constitution and our common law and directly antagonizes the spirit of universal history in its world-wide struggle after lawful liberty—a power which though expressed in terms of current speech as 'the right of employers to manage their business to suit themselves,' is causing to mean in effect, nothing less than a right to manage the country to suit themselves.

"The employes of the mill of Messrs. Carnegie, Phipps & Co., at Homestead, have built there a town with its homes, its schools and its churches; have for many years been faithful co-workers with the company in the business of the mill; have invested thousands of dollars of their savings in the said mill in the expectation of spending their lives in Homestead and of working in the mill during the period of their efficiency.

"In addition to the ordinary gifts and advantages of our government the national legislature has seen fit to specially foster and protect, by public taxation, the industry of their mills; and the state of Pennsylvania is to-day guarding it at great and extraordinary expense.

"Therefore, the committee desires to express to the public as its firm belief that both the public and the employes aforesaid, have equitable rights and interests in the said mill which cannot be modified or diverted without due process of law; that the employes have the right to continuous employment in the said mill during efficiency and good behavior without regard to religious, political or economic opinions and associations; that it is against public policy and subversive of the fundamental principles of American liberty that a whole community of workers should be denied employment or suffer any other social detriment on account of membership in a church, a political party or a trades union; that it is our duty as American citizens to resist by every legal and ordinary means the unconstitutional, anarchic and revolutionary policy of the Carnegie company which seems to evince a contempt of public and private interests and a disdain of the public conscience by its refusal to submit to lawful arbitration, and by the lawless importation of a band of armed mercenaries to forcibly deprive the employe of their equitable rights in advance of any legal adjudication thereupon, and without previous appeal to the lawful forces of Allegheny county and the state of Pennsylvania.

"The committee wish it known that we will prosecute the said public and private interests in the courts of law and equity and that we demand of congress and the state legislatures distinct assertion of the principle that the public has an interest in such concerns as that at Homestead and that the state has a duty to judge the affairs of such concerns when occasion may require.

"Finally, we desire to state emphatically that as defenders of and petitioners for law and order, we pledge ourselves to refrain from violence and lawlessness and that we rest our cause, which is the people's cause—the cause of American liberty—aginst anarchy on the one hand and despotism on the other—with the courts, the legislatures and the public conscience."

SECURING NEW MEN.

Carnegie Picking Up Workingmen in Eastern Cities.

Philadelphia, July 22.—J. Ogden Hoffmen, agent for the Carnegie Steel company in this city, employed about thirty steel workers yesterday and dispatched them to Homestead last night.

The hiring was conducted with great secrecy. The advertisements in the morning papers asked those in search of work to call at an address on Arch street, whence they were sent to the company's office, and, if satisfactory, promptly engaged.

WORKING THE MILLS.

Non-Union Men Taking the Place of the Strikers.

Homestead, Pa., July 22.—Increased activity is noticeable inside the big mill fence to-day. Non-union workmen are coming by squads of from ten to twenty at a time by boat from Pittsburg and a few have got in unobserved through the town of Homestead.

The number of excursionists and sightseers who come here every day and the presence of General Snowden's guards makes this possible. Something like 250 non-union men are now inside the mill.

The armor plate mill, the open hearth mill and the press shop are in operation. Steel was passed through the rolls of the 119-inch mill to-day. The operation of these departments means that Mr. Frick and Superintendent Potter are making great efforts to convince their old men that the mills can be run without their aid.

The tonnage men are too well informed of the true condition of affairs inside the mills to be alarmed at the seeming activity. They know that the mills now in partial operation are manned by bosses, superintendents and a half a dozen non-union steel workers from the Carnegie mills at Braddock.

They know that 250 green men cannot run a plant where 3,800 experienced hands were employed one month ago. The effect upon the day laborers and ignorant Hungarians, Poles and Slavs may not be the same, but none of these men with possibly a dozen exceptions show signs of weakening.

Mr. Frick confidently expected two-thirds of his old hands to return before the expiration of the time which he set. The leaders of the strike therefore claim a victory in holding their men together, for not one per cent of the entire number has returned to his old place.

They are confident that they can continue this state of affairs indefinitely. The moral and financial aid which continues to pour in confirms them in this belief. The company, however, look for a stampede and as long as both sides continue in these positive views of the situation the day of settlement will remain distant.

General Snowden and his 6,000 troops are evidently here to stay and there is much dissatisfaction among the soldiers who were suddenly called away from their usual occupations at what they term unnecessary detention when a few companies would be ample to guard the Carnegie works.

MORE TROUBLE.

The Amalgamated Has a Job on Its Hands in St. Louis.

St. Louis, July 22.—There is prospect of trouble between the Amalgamated association and two of the iron works here. One of the works, the Belleville Steel company, decides to make a reduction of 10 per cent., but to this the men will not agree.

The company, however, state that they will abide by the schedule formed by the convention now in session in Pittsburg. Until that time they want their hands to accept the 10 per cent. reduction on the scale.

FOR HOMESTEAD.

Carnegie Scouring the Country for Workingmen.

St. Louis, July 22.—An agent of Carnegie's is in the city and has advertised for men to work in the Homestead mills. Yesterday afternoon a number of men made application for work and were promised more wages than that received by men employed in similar work in other cities. In addition the men were offered free transportation for themselves and families. It is not believed that the agent will be able to secure many men from this city.

HEARING POSTPONED.

The Magistrate Not Ready to Hear O'Donnell's Case.

Pittsburg, July 22.—There was another big crowd of laboring men in Judge Magee's court room this morning in anticipation that O'Donnell and Ross would be brought up from jail on the hearing for their release on bail.

After the formal application had been filed O'Donnell's petition, setting forth that he was not guilty of the charges made against him; that the said charge was not made in good faith, and that he always has been and is now desirous of preserving the peace, it was developed that the district attorney desired time to examine the evidence and was consequently not prepared to go on.

Judge Magee was anxious to set the hearing for 3 o'clock this afternoon but this was not acceptable, and finally it was made the special order for to-morrow morning.

Incidentally, the judge said that if the evidence was of a character indicating murder in the first degree he would insist upon sufficient testimony being taken to enable him to reach a proper conclusion, but to this the private counsel for the Carnegies responded that they thought the proceedings to-morrow might be made very short. The prisoners were not brought into court.

Secretary Lovejoy says that his mail is loaded down with applications from competent men, anxious to secure work at Homestead. He says he considers the operations at the works as having started to-day, and that the company has consequently kept up to the declarations it has been making all along.

As to the refusal of the old hands to take advantage of the "last day of grace" he said that the latter expression did not mean that the men would never be re-employed, but that no position would be kept for them, and that when they returned they would have to take whatever was left to be given them.

After the proceedings in court this morning, eight Pinkerton detectives who were in the Homestead mills on the day of the riot assembled in the office of Warden McAleese in the county jail. Ten prisoners from different parts of the county were brought into the warden's private room and placed in a row in the inside corridor. O'Donnell was fourth in the row. The Pinkertons were then admitted one at a time and inspected each man in turn.

Most of them moved on with a satisfied look upon their faces. Not one of the number would say a word regarding the incident, but one of the jail officials hinted shortly after that one and all had recognized O'Donnell as being one of the foremost participants in the bloody tragedy of July 6.

It is thought from this that the Carnegies propose to establish the basis of a charge of murder in the first degree against O'Donnell, in order that the court may refuse him bail.

A dispatch from Johnstown, Pa., says: "There is no question but what the Cambria mills here are filling orders for the Homestead mills. The department making angle bars has been rushed day and night for sometime, and to-day it was positively learned that a large order was being filled for the Homestead mills. The men are also confident that a big order of 4x4 billets is to be sent out to the customers of the Homestead mills.

LAKE MARINE.

TROLLEY CAR.

A Broken Rail Causes a Number of People to be Injured.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 22.—A trolley car at Coney Island was derailed last night by a broken rail and crashed into an iron pole.

Several passengers were injured, the most serious being John J. Davis, of this city, knocked insensible, cut and bruised; Charles McLaughlin, of Brooklyn, bruised and severely cut; Mrs. Charles McLaughlin, badly cut; and Mrs. Charles Wolzer, Brooklyn, cut on head and face and badly injured. The car was filled with passengers returning home after a day's merry-making at the island.

EXCURSION TRAIN WRECKED.

Rochester, N. Y., July 22.—An excursion train returning to Tonawanda last night with the members of the Niagara River lodge, I. O. O. F., who had been spending the day at Ontario beach, backed into a standing freight train in the western part of the city, wrecking the engine of the freight train and several cars of the excursion train. No one was injured, but it was a narrow escape. The track was blocked for two hours.

WAGES ADVANCED.

Louisville, Ky., July 22.—The Louisville & Nashville railroad came to an agreement with its telegraph operators yesterday. A general advance of $5 a month was made in their pay. They are allowed compensation for extra work, and a grievance committee will be recognized.

WAS A ROUSING MEETING

Kind Words for Retiring Chairman Brice.

Mapping Out the Work of the Campaign.

The War Will be Carried into Africa, so to Speak, and Will be Hot All Along the Line.

New York, July 22.—(Special.)—As stated in the dispatches yesterday, W. F. Harrity was selected to conduct the democratic campaign.

Immediately after the roll call, Hon. Calvin S. Brice, chairman of the former committee, reiterated his former declaration that he did not desire to be considered a candidate for re-election. "In the campaign of four years ago," said he, "I worked as earnestly as any man could for democratic success. I threw my entire mental and physical energy into the contest. The party was defeated, however, and I am not unaware of the fact that the public always judges a matter of this kind by the standard of success. I am confident, however, that the members of that committee know that nothing was left undone by myself or the committee to achieve success. (Applause.) I regret to sever my pleasant connection with the committee as its chairman, but I must decline to be considered in that connection. I thank the members for the past honor conferred upon me, and assure the committee that my services as a member are always at the command of the committee, and that anything I can do for the party I will always be glad to do." (Applause.)

M. Gorman of Maryland, Mr. Ransom of North Carolina; Thomas, of Colorado; and Mr. Whitney, of New York all made brief speeches in commendation of Mr. Brice's past services to the party.

"I was very anxious," said Mr. Whitney, "that Mr. Brice should remain at the head of the national committee and again take the leadership in the campaign, if he would consent to do so, but he declined, and it was only on his positive declination that I, for one, consented to turn elsewhere for a chairman. I know of the magnificent services that Mr. Brice has rendered, and I earnestly but vainly urged him to allow his name to be again presented. But for reasons satisfactory to himself, he has declined, and we must accept his decision."

At this juncture Mr. Brice retired from the chair and Mr. Sewell of Maine assumed the gavel. Mr. Tanney of California introduced a resolution extending the thanks of the committee to Mr. Brice for his earnest and able services of the past. It was adopted by a rising vote. Mr. Brice now resumed the chair and declared the election of a chairman of the national committee to be in order.

Mr. Whitney introduced the following resolutions in regard to the plan of campaign, and they were adopted by acclamation:

Resolved, That the executive committee of the democratic national committee shall consist of 25 members who shall be designated by the chairman of the national committee, and that the chairman of the national committee shall be ex-officio chairman of the executive committee.

Resolved, That the campaign committee of the national democratic committee shall consist of nine members who shall be designated by the chairman of the national committee, the said chairman to be also one of the members of said campaign committee, and that said campaign committee, when appointed, shall select its own chairman from within or without the said campaign committee or from within or without the democratic national committee.

Resolved, That the advisory board of the democratic national committee, which committee the chairman of the democratic national committee is hereby authorized to appoint from within or without the membership of the democratic national committee, shall consist of such number of members as may be deemed proper by the campaign committee.

Resolved, That the conduct and direction of the campaign of 1892 shall be under the charge of the chairman of the democratic national committee and of the campaign committee, subject to the approval of the executive committee of the democratic national committee.

It is rumored that Mr. Wm. C. Whitney will be made chairman of the advisory committee.

A committee of two, Chairman Harrity and Secretary Sheerin, was selected to procure headquarters in New York. Until the headquarters are selected the Fifth Avenue hotel will be retained by Secretary Sheerin as headquarters.

The contests as to the committeemen from Indian Territory and the District of Columbia were referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Gorman of Maryland, Pasco of Florida, and Blair of Kansas, and it was ordered that this committee's decision be final.

A resolution was adopted instructing each member of the committee on returning home to study closely the political situation in his particular state and submit a written report thereon to the secretary of the committee at the earliest practicable date. The committee then adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

Hon. Washington Hessing of Chicago, Speaker Crafts of the Illinois house of representatives, Hon. W. C. Goudy of Chicago, Hon. Lambert Tree, ex-minister to Russia, and others who have been appointed to endeavor to secure the establishment of western headquarters of the national committee at Chicago decided today that the executive committee, when appointed, would be the proper organization to consider their report of the conditions and necessities in the west. The committee has explained to ex-President Cleveland, Mr. Whitney and nearly all the members of the committee individually the objects to be attained by western headquarters.

CLEVELAND IN HARLEM

A Grand Reception Tendered to the Leader.

The Tammanyites Cheer Him to the Echo.

The Pipe of Peace Has Been Smoked, and There is Consternation in the Camp of the Enemy.

New York, July 22.—Grover Cleveland and Adali Stevenson smoked last night the calumet with the Sagamores of Harlem, where a reception was tendered the two leaders of the democratic party.

It was a great time for the people of Harlem, and not a democrat of any note in the annexed district was absent.

All grasped the hands of Cleveland and Stevenson and with vigorous shakes that made the candles occasionally wince.

Outside the club room the streets were ablaze with fireworks, and in many hued incandescent lights the facade bore the name of the club and the names of Cleveland and Stevenson.

When Cleveland and Stevenson arrived a mighty shout went up from thousands of throats, the flights of rockets were more frequent and colored fires added to the general enthusiasm.

Inside the club house was packed, a string band played patriotic airs, and the portrait of Richard Croker looked down from one of the walls on many familiar faces among them. The two guests were welcomed by Judge Andrew J. White, president of the club. Without loss of time Thomas F. Gilroy called for order and in a brief speech said that in the name of about one-tenth of the population of the entire county of New York, Grover Cleveland and Adali E. Stevenson were greeted and welcomed.

President White followed with a formal speech of welcome. The crowd gave a vigorous cheer but kept silent as Grover Cleveland responded by saying:

"I came here [illegible] to see you, not to talk to you. At the same time I can hardly do less than to thank you for the warm and cordial welcome. I witnessed last night in the lower part of the town a manifestation that was evidence to me that the democracy of New York were fully alive to the questions and issues involved in the campaign. To-night I see another manifestation which rather confirms my views on that subject. So far as this is personal, it is exceedingly gratifying to receive your hearty welcome from the democrats of the city of my home.

"As a democrat I am very pleased because it affords an evidence that the democracy is alive and earnest in the work it has in hand. As a citizen I am pleased, because I am convinced that the supremacy of democratic principles is necessary for the interests and welfare of my country. I am a democrat; I feel very much at home here to-night because I am among democrats. I have forgotten that there was any difference of opinion. (Here the speaker was interrupted with cheers). I observe I am a democrat and believe in democratic organization. I hope to have the opportunity of grasping as many of you by the hand to-night as possible, that we may pledge each other the fealty which is necessary to secure that election which our party demands and which will be an earnest of the victory to come."

There was more applause upon the conclusion of the ex-president's little speech, and when it was over Gen. Stevenson said:

"I can hardly find words in which to express my gratitude for the kindness shown me, and for the cordial reception which I have met in this great city of our country. I came among you a stranger, but I came among you as a democrat. (A voice: "That was your passport.") That was my passport and is a passport I will bear back to the great state of Illinois with the glorious tidings which will cheer every democratic heart, that I find New York is united and that there are no factions or differences, but that all are united on the candidates nominated by the Chicago convention. I will bear back to my own state the tidings of the manifestation I have seen here to-night. I will tell the democrats of Illinois, which once had the great leader Douglass as the acknowledged leader of the party in that great state, we enter this contest under the leadership of Grover Cleveland with the determination to place that state in the democratic column at the next election. I can never forget the demonstration last night or your reception to-night."

More cheers followed and then began the handshaking. After the handshaking the candidates took their departure, and then the club men and their friends sat down to a banquet and as they touched glasses drank to the success of the democratic national ticket.

THEY ARE DIVORCED.

An Elopement That Did Not Turn Out Happily.

Walter B. Dean and Pretty Miss Anna Funk Are no Longer Man and Wife.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 22.—While rummaging among the decrees in the district court clerk's office at St. Paul yesterday a reporter of a Minneapolis paper ran across a decree for divorce which will excite comment in theatrical circles.

On November 21, 1889, Walter B. Dean, of Baltimore, then manager of the Harris theater, St. Paul, eloped with Miss Anna Funk to Minneapolis, one of the most beautiful girls of the saintly city, only 20 years of age, and worth $30,000.

The girl's mother had objected, so the young couple had taken the next most usual course, got married without the parental consent.

Since that time Dean has been connected with the Harris chain of theaters at Louisville, Pittsburg, Cincinnati and Baltimore.

In her complaint Mrs. Dean asserts that her husband has not been true, and names Miss Frankie Fuller, also known in theatrical circles, as the young woman with whom the fickle Walter has had improper relations.

The divorce was granted on the testimony of Mrs. Dean, and an unsuccessful attempt made to sequester the complaint and decree.

COLUMBUS DAY.

October 21, 1892, to be a Legal Holiday.

Proclamation by the President of the United States Issued to That Effect.

Washington, July 22.—The following proclamation was issued yesterday afternoon by the president of the United States:

A Proclamation.

"Whereas, By a joint resolution approved June 29, 1892, it was resolved by the senate and house of representatives of America in congress assembled 'That the president of the United States be authorized to use a proclamation recommending to the people the observance in all their localities of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America on the 21st day of October, 1892, by public demonstration and by suitable exercises in their schools and other places of assembly.'

"Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, president of the United States of America, in pursuance of the aforesaid joint resolution, do hereby appoint Friday, Oct. 21, 1892, the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, as a general holiday for the people of the United States. On that day let the people, so far as possible, cease all toil and devote themselves to such exercises as may best express honor to the discoverer and their appreciation of the great achievements of the four completed centuries of American life.

"Columbus stood in his age as the pioneer of progress and enlightenment. The system of universal education is in our age the most prominent and salutary feature of the spirit and enlightenment, and it is particularly appropriate that the schools be made by the people the center of the day's demonstration. Let the national flag float over every school house in the country and the exercises be such as shall impress upon our youth the patriotic duties of American citizenship.

"In the churches and other places of assembly of the people let there be expressions of gratitude to Divine Providence for the devout faith of the discoverer and for the Divine care and guidance which has directed our history and so abundantly blessed our people.

"Benjamin Harrison."

THE MITCHELL CASE.

Alice, the Fair Memphis Murderess,

Loved Freda Ward With All of a Man's Love.

The Last Letter She Wrote to the Girl Before Meeting Her on the Street and Cutting Her Throat.

Memphis, July 22.—The Mitchell trial is still in progress. More evidence, all on the same line has been introduced.

The following is a sample letter written by Alice to Freda. The "Ybir" is the cipher for love.

Memphis, Tenn., August 11, 1891.

Ybir to dearest love. If you knew it, you are getting me in trouble. I have stood it long enough. I am too jealous.

I love you, Freda, and would kill Ashley before I would see him take you from me. You think I am only saying that for fun, but I really mean it. I know you love him, but if you would tell me the truth about it, and wouldn't be so mean, I would not be so jealous. I have done something, and I know you will get mad at me for it, but I can't help it. As long as you do me this way I will keep it up.

Please be true to me, sing, and I won't do anything wrong as long as you are true to me. I don't mean to do Ashley any harm, but if you still make me J. and deceive me, I will. I hate to do it, but you will be the cause of it. He has done nothing to me, but I am mad with jealousy.

I am writing to-night for I may go over to Lill's to-morrow evening. I can't write much for it is late. After this, I will write only when I get a letter from my sing. Sweet one, you have done me an injury, but I love you still with all your faults.

I wish we were married, but it will be better for us to wait until next winter, unless you say no. We can get off all right then, and take all the clothes and anything else we want. I won't write any more to-night, but will try to write more some time to-morrow. I love you, I love you! Sunday evening I wish you could see "lovey."

If I could squeeze you just once it would do me good. I wish you knew how I love. I would give anything for you. I more than love you. Be sure and tell me when Miss Ada will let you come. It is too long to run off, for I am afraid some boy will take you from me if we wait too long.

You are such an angel, Freda. Do you love me half as much as you did last winter? I believe you loved me truer then than you ever did. If you don't love me you needn't, but I will love you forever. I worship you, love. I hope you will be true to me after this. But it is no use as long as you think of Ashley and Harry so much.

If you loved me, as you say you do, you would deceive them instead of me. I will not try to fuss at you any more, love, unless you say something about that, until I see you. Do you remember what I said I would do if you would deceive? That's what I was coming for, sweet one, honest, but Lill begged me. I love you, Freda, and hate to do it.

Be true to me, will you, love? I had the nerve to price the pistols. They only had one size, and that was too big. That was all that kept me from getting it. They were $12. Then I wrote to Lill, and if it hadn't been for her I would have tried every place in Memphis until I got the right one. I was so jealous I didn't know what I was doing.

Freda, if you only knew how I love, you would try and stop loving them, before you marry me, love. Nothing could make me happier than to have you love none but me. If you loved me one-third as much as I love you, I would feel better.

I am so J. I will ask you once more for the last time to desert all for my sake, even Ashley and Harry, and be true to me forever. It is the last time I will ask it. If you love me you will do it. You can't love all at once and love them truly.

You will have to give up some. I have always been your best friend. I am not merely your friend but your true lover. I have done nothing to you as I know of, to make you do me this way. I have always been true to you. You might think enough of me to tell me the truth. Yours forever. SWEETHEART.

The features in the Mitchell case this morning were for the most part devoid of interest. Miss Addie Mitchell testified that her sister would have nothing to do with boys, nor would she attend Sunday school. James Johnson, brother to Lillie, the alleged accomplice, testified that Alice seemed to care nothing for him or any other young man.

Dr. Calendar arrived from Nashville. His testimony will be heard to-morrow. The defense temporarily withdrew the hypothetical case, as the state has disproved that point alleging that Miss Mitchell had no regard for young men.

WAR ON ITALIANS.

A Band of Tramps Making Trouble in Maryland.

Cumberland, Md., July 22.—The Baltimore & Ohio operator at Patterson's Creek was attacked by a gang of Italians last night at a late hour. Three of their number had been put off a passenger train there by the conductor for refusing to pay their fare, and they attempted to take out their spite on the operator whose name is Cornwall.

He had a friend with him in the office and with pistols they succeeded in putting the Italians to flight.

Immediately after the trouble with the operator they sought refuge in a box car and their number was augmented by the arrival of friends of the same nationality. At 2 o'clock this morning a crowd of farmers were collecting with the intention of driving the undesirable foreigners away. Trouble is feared.

WHERE IS THE MONEY?

A National Bank Appears to be Short,

And the Stockholders Will be Compelled to Make the Amount Good.

Vincennes, Ind., July 22.—It has developed that the worthless assests of the Vincennes National bank will amount to $190,000 in round figures, and that the officer, directors and stockholders will be required to raise $50,000 to $60,000 to pay off the liabilities. It is surmised that a great many shortages will turn up against the bank which may more than wipe out all the capital surplus and undivided profits, and may necessitate an assessment upon the stockholders. The stockholders held a meeting and received the report of a committee appointed to investigate its affairs. Among other things the committee reports that the debts of the bank, including deposits on general account subject to check, certificates of deposit, paper rediscounted by other banks and for which the bank is liable upon its indorsements, amounts in the aggregate to $200,000.

The failure is one of the biggest financial crashes ever known in Indiana, and many startling developments are expected in a few days.

HOG CHOLERA.

Woodstock, Ont., July 22.—Hog cholera has broken out in the northern part of this county. Already nearly 200 hogs have died from the disease.

PEOPLE'S PARTY BATTLE

The Members Are Preparing for a Hard Contest.

Head Quarters Opened in St. Louis.

Funds Are Coming in and Everything Points to a Vigorous Campaign from the Start.

St. Louis, July 22.—The managers of the people's party have established national headquarters in the Richelieu hotel in this city, and are preparing for a vigorous campaign during the next three months.

Mr. E. E. Taubeneck, chairman of the national committee, says that the outlook is brighter to-day than ever before. He says that the appeal for funds which was sent out to friends of the movement and to friendly organizations a few weeks ago, has met with a hearty response, and that the efforts of the new party will be in no wise handicapped by lack of ready money.

When asked if he thought Weaver could command as large a following as Gresham could have done, he said that the general opinion among third party people was that Weaver was the strongest man of the two and that, notwithstanding that he had supported Gresham at Omaha, he was thoroughly satisfied with the result.

It is thought that, had Gresham been put at the head of the ticket, thousands of democrats who will vote for Weaver would have fallen back into the old party rather than vote for a man who has affiliated with the republicans all his life.

The lack of harmony between the democrats and third party in Minnesota causes some uneasiness among the people's party leaders, but they are confident that an understanding will eventually be arrived at by which the democratic vote will be cast for Weaver. The disaffected alliance element in that state is thought to be too small to cut any figure in the campaign. Besides claiming a fighting chance in Minnesota, the independents claim that the electoral votes of Nevada, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Idaho, North and South Dakota, and Montana are sure to be cast for Weaver, and that without these states neither the republicans nor democrats can, by any possibility, get a majority in the electoral college, in which case the election would be thrown into the house of representatives. They realize that this would mean Cleveland's election, but say that if they can only demonstrate that the third party holds the balance of power they will be able to bring the old parties to terms and compel them to legislate along the lines of the Omaha platform, and against the encroachments of the corporations, trusts and monopolies.

NEWS FROM FINDLAY.

Divorce Courts Continue to Grind.

Miscellaneous News Gathered in the Brilliant City by One of the Busy Bees.

Findlay, O., July 22.—(Special.)—The second annual picnic of the several lodges of the I. O. O. F. in this county will be held at McComb on Thursday, September 1.

An unknown man was overcome by the heat at the T., C. & C. depot last evening.

Judge Johnson granted two more divorces to misfit couples yesterday: Anna Tremains from her husband Stephen, and Abigal Grise from her husband John, willful absence the cause.

The tenth annual camp meeting of the Sandusky Union Holiness association will be held at Portage, O., commencing August 11.

The Findlay, Ft. Wayne & Western road, known as the Tangent line, now has about sixty miles of track completed without a curve in it. The minimum grade is not to exceed fifteen feet to the mile.

The Barnum & Bailey show was the means of crowding Findlay to its utmost capacity to-day. The million dollar street pageant surpassed anything of the kind ever given here and is worth coming miles to see. The menagerie and circus were resplendent with many new features and the grand spectacle of Columbus discovering America was a fitting climax of America's greatest amusement enterprise.

SAYS HE IS HONEST.

President Kelso Denies that He is a Defaulter.

Pine Bluff, Ark., July 22.—J. G. Kelso, the reputed absconder and president of the bank of Magnolia, Ark., vice-president of the Ouchita Valley bank, of Camden, Ark., and Ogula City bank, of Texarkana, Ark., passed through here yesterday on his way home from French Lick Springs.

He states that the accusation that he was a defaulter in the sum of $70.00, taken from the three banks, was a falsehood. He intends at once to bring suit for damages against his accusers and for libel against the newspapers who printed the reports.

OPPOSITION TO THE TORREY BILL.

Washington, July 22.—Messrs. Buchanan, of Virginia, Culberson, of Indiana and [illegible] of the strongest democratic members of the judiciary committee, have united in a minority report presented to the house to-day protesting against the passage of the Torrey bankruptcy bill. The minority oppose the passage of any national bankruptcy law.

HEALTHY. HAPPY. WHY?

Is he a bright child? Does he look healthy and happy? He is bright, and he is both healthy and happy. He is the little son of Mrs. Henry T. Bowers, wife of the well-known contractor and builder, who resides in Dorchester avenue, South Boston. Mrs. Bowers has had quite an experience with her children, which experience we give in her own words, as follows:

"I have a little boy two and one-half years of age, the perfect picture of rugged health, and also a little girl of four. I attribute their good health and good temper to the use of Dr. Hand's Remedies.

I have used, as occasion required, the entire line, and have had very marked results from the Colic Cure, Cough and Croup Medicine, and the Pleasant Physic. I have never had any but good result from the use of any of them."

No mother would make a statement like the above unless she knew wholly whereof she affirmed.

A $7,000,000 BOY.

He is Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. Hooker Hamersley.

Newport, R. I., July 22.—Mrs. J. Hooker Hamersley became the mother yesterday of a son, who, if he lives long enough, will become the possessor of the millions whose income the Duchess of Marlborough is now enjoying. By his will, made on May 8, 1883, Louis C. Hamersley, the duchess' first husband, left his entire estate in trust, the income to be paid to his widow during her life, and the principal to go at her death to the male children of his cousin, J. Hooker Hamersley. Should Mr. J. Hooker Hamersley continue a bachelor, as he was then, or should he marry and die without male children, then the whole was to be divided among charities to be selected by the testator's widow, the present Duchess of Marlborough. Under this clause of Louis C. Hamersley's will, his estate, estimated at $7,000,000, will manifestly belong to the baby boy born yesterday. What adds interest to the birth of this boy is the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Hamersley have two other children, both of whom are girls.

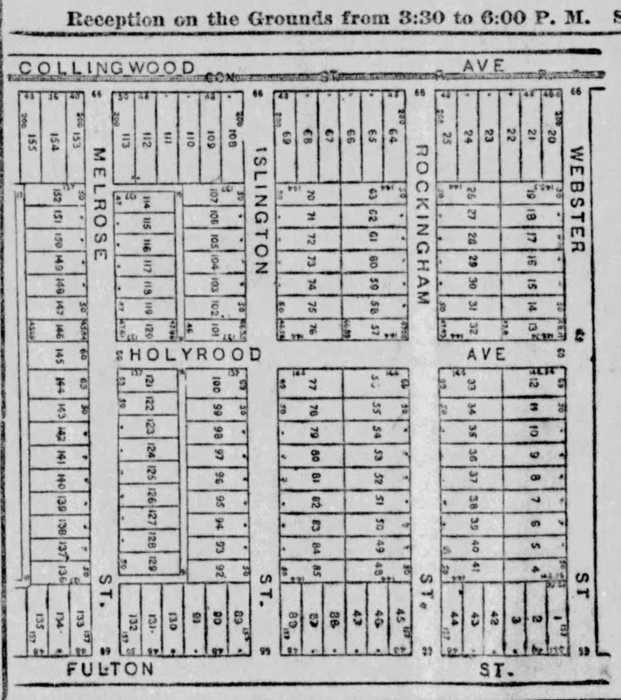
FREE SPECIAL TRAIN OF ELECTRIC CARS for Midsummer Sale of Lots at

KENSINGTON

MONDAY, JULY 25, 1892.

Reception on the Grounds from 3:30 to 6:00 P. M. Sale Commencing at 4:30. W. G. Alexander, Auctioneer.



25 LOTS ONLY

In this ATTRACTIVE ADDITION will be offered to the highest bidders. The lots to be sold are representative ones, selected from each block of the property.

$100.00 will be given to people who attend the sale.

$1500.00 Lot will be given to purchasers.

A PROCESSION OF

Free Electric Cars for Kensington

Headed by Leon's Band, will start at 3:00 o'clock and pass around the loop on Summit, Adams, Superior and Monroe streets, before leaving for the grounds. At 3:00, 3:30, 4:00 and 4:30 P. M., free special cars will leave the corner of Summit and Adams streets. Take the 3:00 o'clock train, if you can, and avoid the rush. Be in time to see the property and attend our reception before the sale opens.

Little Need be Said

Regarding Kensington, its location, surroundings and advantages. It speaks for itself and will bear your closest scrutiny.

Toledo's Fancy Residence Property

It is admitted by all, lies within a district bounded by Cherry Street, Detroit Avenue and Monroe Street, or immediately outside of this district. The centre of this fine property formerly between 12th and 15th streets has, from year to year, crept out Madison Street until it has reached the vicinity of Collingwood and Woodruff Avenues, and is now, by the erection of handsome residences, and improvement of streets on each side, moving out Collingwood Avenue at no snail's pace. Kensington will naturally before long be in the very heart of the best property, and, aided by owners who are prepared to encourage all improvements, the time will not be long coming when this property will sell at double the present prices.

The Highest Bidder

Will receive the choice of the 25 lots that will be offered. The lots chosen for the sale have been selected in pairs throughout the addition, facing on Fulton, Webster, Rockingham and Melrose Avenues. These lots will not be sold because of any profit to be derived by the present owners; the purchasers will have the profit. The sale is to be held and gifts made to advertise Kensington. Profits to present owners will be secured from the 120 lots remaining which will be sold at regular retail prices only. Collingwood and Islington Avenues, through the outlay of many thousands of dollars, have already, by the present owners, been made handsome and attractive residence streets, so that the present retail price on these streets cannot be discounted.

The Wonderful Development

That has occurred in property on Franklin, Putnam, Fulton, Parkwood, Scottwood, Robinwood, Glenwood and Maplewood avenues, by reason of the introduction of rapid transit street car facilities, is sure to be repeated on the streets in Kensington, and prices that prevail at our sale will be a thing of the past.

Terms of Sale:

$10 cash and $40 when contract is executed; balance monthly, quarterly or yearly; 6 per cent. interest on deferred payments. Opinion of title, by the abstract firm of Bissell & Gorrill, will be furnished each purchaser.

BUILDING RESTRICTIONS

Have been adopted that will always keep Kensington a strictly first-class residence addition. These restrictions, in every deed, require, for a period of 15 years, that all lots shall be used for residence purposes only; that no house, barn or other building shall be built closer to any street than 25 feet; and that no residence shall be built costing less than $2,500. It will be necessary that all purchasers observe these restrictions closely.

The Consolidated Belt Electric Railway,

Running as it does, in a direct line down into business, will be a great factor in building up this beautiful residence center. Kensington is now but 15 minutes from Summit street by the new line.

10 COACHES

From the Crescent Livery have been engaged and will be in waiting on the grounds to show the entire property to all who attend the sale. This is made necessary because of the large territory covered by the property, it being nearly a mile around.

REFRESHMENTS

Of Ice Cream and Cake will be served on the grounds at No. 417 Islington Avenue. All (except children) are invited.

This House on Lot 104 will be Included in the Auction.

CLEVELAND'S

One rounded teaspoonful of Cleveland's Baking Powder does more and better work than a heaping teaspoonful of any other. A large saving on a year's bakings.

BAKING POWDER

A pure cream of tartar powder. Used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of Cookery.

Cleveland's is the standard, it never varies, it does the most work, the best work and is perfectly wholesome, as it contains no ammonia, no alum, no adulteration.

On July 22, 1376, according to legend, a strange musician, the Pied Piper of Hamel, cleared that town of rats.

He played so charmingly that the rats followed him to the River Weser and were drowned. Being refused the payment agreed upon, he played another tune. The children followed to a door in the mountain side

TREASURY DAY.

Financial Matters Discussed at the White House.

Washington, July 22.—Yesterday was treasury day at the white house, and Secretary Foster was in conference with President Harrison a long time in the afternoon.

It is understood that among the subjects discussed were the international monetary conference and the appointment of a comptroller of the currency. The latter, it is understood, will be given to A. P. Hepburn, national bank examiner of New York. The nomination will be made probably to-day or Saturday. In connection with the monetary conference it is said the name of ex-Secretary Blaine as one of the committee was understood to be under consideration. It is assumed that if Mr. Blaine indicates his willingness to serve as a member of the conference he will be appointed.

The appropriation to cover the expenses of the conference is contained in the sundry civil bill now in conference. The names said to have been practically decided upon before that of ex-Secretary Blaine was suggested were Senator Jones, of Nevada; H. W. Cannon, of New York; Lambert Tree, of Illinois; Francis A. Walker, of Massachusetts, and E. O. Leech, director of the mint. In case Mr. Blaine should be made a member, one of the eastern men named would have to be dropped. It is expected that the conference will be held in Brussels.

WON BY NUNTHORPE.

London, July 22.—The handicap race, one mile and three furlongs, for the Liverpool cup, was won to-day by Col. North's 6-year old bay horse Nunthorpe, by Speculum or Camballo, out of Matilda. Baron De Hirsch's bay colt Windgall, by Gillard out of Windsor, was second, and Mr. B. Maple's 3-year old bay colt Clarence, by Saraband, out of Princess Arena, was third.

The Manhattan elevated railroad, New York, carries, it is claimed, 500,000 passengers daily. At this rate a year's total would amount to 182,500,000, and at five-cent fares the receipts would be $9,125,000.

MAT MANNUS

Can Handle His Feet in Great Shape—His Ford Post Walk.

Mat Mannus, the Lake Shore yardmaster on the East Side, can do a great many things and do them well. His friends did not know that he was a big walker, but he is. Last evening he walked at the Ford post lawn fete against time and did 20 miles in 3 hours and 13 1-2 minutes, coming off the track as fresh as a daisy. Mat was never phased, and is performing his duties as yardmaster to-day in great shape.

TOLEDO COTTON MILLS

After a discussion, the trustees were authorized to advertise the property for sale for 30 days, inviting bids for the same, with the power reserved to reject any or all. The grounds are in a splendid part of the city and will likely command good figures.

Arrangements have been made with the Toledo Bicycle club, under the auspices of the L. A. W., to have races each day at the exposition, next September. Handsome prizes will be awarded, and the feature will be one of the most interesting connected with the exposition. More attractions have been secured for this year than any previous year, and it is safe to predict that the affair will be a howling success.

THE PRESS CLUB.

Its Moonligt Excursion Was a Blooming Success.

A special meeting of the Toledo Press club was held at its rooms yesterday afternoon. Report was made by Treasurer Caughling on the recent moonlight excursion, which proved to be a financial as well as social success. A number of matters were discussed and appropriately referred. In token of appreciation of services by the gentlemen, Messrs. A. W. Colton, Col. J. C. Bonner, and Frank I. King, president of the Produce Exchange, were unanimously elected as honorary members of the club. A committee on entertainment, composed of Messrs. F. J. Oblinger, Charles Caughling and M. P. Murphy, was appointed. It is gratifying to know the club is in excellent shape financially and otherwise, and is therefore able to give Toledo a boost when circumstances require.

THIRD OHIO CAVALRY.

The executive committee is composed of Capt. E. M. Colver, Otto Schinlansky, Capt. J. B. Luckey, Frank Reidy, and Leonard Winkler. Capt. Colver resides at Sandusky, and will no doubt see that the visiting veterans are given a royal welcome.

John Sanwall and Helen Mason filed separate suits in common pleas court today against the city to recover the amount of a judgment awarded in probate court July 12, 1886, to the plaintiff in a suit brought by the city against property owners to condemn for the extension of Wabash street.

Helen Mason claims $419.73 and John Sanwalt $152.

John Schrag also filed suit against the city to recover $5,000 damages for personal injury sustained by a fall on the corner of Cherry and Superior streets, caused by the alleged defectiveness of the sidewalk.

SATURDAY HALF HOLIDAYS

Will Become Popular—An Enterprising Firm.

People define the word enterprise to suit themselves, but the interpretation put upon it by Messrs. Lasalle & Koch, is likely to become popular with many merchants and all employes. This firm not only gives a half holiday on Saturday, but has provided outings and pleasure trips for their clerks. To-morrow an excursion will be taken on the steamer Swansea, Messrs. Lasalle & Koch having chartered the boat for that purpose, and all their employes have been given complimentary tickets. There would be no capital vs. labor questions, no strikes and no need of Pinkertons if all employers followed, even on a small scale, the example set by the genial and generous gentlemen of this firm.

CHARITIES AND CORRECTION.

The Annual Conference in Cleveland—Toledo Interested.

The local committee for the Ohio State conference of Charities and Correction, to be held at Cleveland, September 13 to 16, has sent out the program for the occasion, together with information concerning the same. The fullest arrangements have been made for the meeting. Toledo is interested, having a member on the following committees: Ventilation, sewerage, etc., Dr. G. A Collamore; hospitals and despensaries, Dr. James A. Duncan and Dr. Collamore; county infirmaries, Herman Baumbach; insane and epileptics, Dr. H. A. Tobey; penetentiaries and jails, Col. Isaac D. Smead. Gen. R. B. Hayes and Governor McKinley are on the program, to respond to the address of welcome by Mayor Rose. All persons interested in any charitable or correctory work are eligible to seats in the conference, and a large attendance is expected.

BARNUM & BAILEY'S CIRCUS

Will be in Toledo Saturday—The Route of the Procession.

Saturday is circus day, and early in the morning the small boy and girl, with probably a full representation of the old folks, will be out to witness its advent. The "greatest show on earth," Barnum & Bailey's, is to appear and there will scarcely be a doubt as to a liberal patronage. The Bee has already mentioned the features to be seen, and nothing now remains save to get ready. A change in the location of the tents from former years has been rendered necessary. This time the canvass field is located alongside the base ball grounds, between Dorr street and Indiana avenue, entrance on Ewing street. The parade will start at 9 o'clock, and will traverse the following route: Ewing street to Dorr, to Collingwood avenue, to Monroe street, to Seventeenth to Adams, to Huron, to Cherry, to Ontario, to Locust, to Summit, to Monroe, to Ontario, to Washington, to Indiana avenue, to grounds. The circus management make a request that horses and vehicles shall be kept off the streets while the procession is moving, since it may prevent accident. Everybody go to the circus.

PRIMROSE & WEST.

What They Will Dish Up at Wheeler's To-Night.

Primrose & West are out with a big show this season. They appear at Wheeler's this evening. Of their performance at Detroit the Journal says:

Primrose & West's minstrels was the midsummer attraction that drew an audience that filled the Detroit opera house last evening. The program called for a "Mikado" first part, in which the performers wore the Japanese costume, and with the decoration of colored lights and Chinese lanterns, presented a pretty scene. Mr. Primrose introduced a clever sketch, in which he personated a college swell, with song and dance entitled "Easy Street," that was received with rapturous applause. The singing of J. Fielding, F. W. Oakland and J. M. Janson, was also an enjoyable feature of the entertainment. Morris Cronin in his club-swinging specialty, was a revelation to a majority of the spectators. Larry Dooley is a second edition of Billy Rice, and, like Billy, is a whole show by himself. Several good specialties are introduced, and the show as a whole is better than the average minstrel entertainment.

ALONG THE GREAT LAKES.

The Toll Question is Bothering the Canadians.

St. Clair Flats Canal is in Canadian Waters.

A Serious Complication Would Arise Should a Seizure be Made—General Marine.

Ottawa, Ont., July 22.—Speaking with reference to the proposal of Judge Chipman to impose a toll on all Canadian vessels passing through the St. Clair Flats canal, a member of the cabinet said last night that he would like to see the American government attempt to seize a Canadian vessel for refusing to pay toll. The canal, while constructed with United States capital, was indisputably in Canadian territory. However, he did not believe for one moment any such step would be taken by the United States.

Dealing with Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., July 22.—In reply to an official communication received from Washington recently enquiring whether it was understood by the Canadian authorities that under the terms of the bill passed by the house of commons last session, the principle of reciprocity in wrecking and towing extended to the canal system, the Canadian government has informed the Washington officials that so far as concerned towing incidental to salvage the principle would extend to the canals.

Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 22.—Coal freights very quiet. Charters—Schoolcraft, Nester, Portage, 50 cents.

Cleveland.

Cleveland, July 22.—This time it is the vessel owners' victory. The Escanaba rate on ore was firmly established at 75 cents this morning, several vessels being placed at that figure, but offerings of tonnage at the advance were not heavy. Ashland freights are strong, but conditions do not warrant an advance.

Chicago.

Chicago, July 22.—After ruling for six weeks the 2-cent wheat rate to Buffalo was broken to-day by 2 1-4 being paid for the Samoa and David Vance. Large boats might have difficulty in getting the new figures, but few of them are on the market. Vesselmen believe that if the demand for boats keeps up as good as it is to-day the advance will be established without difficulty.

"Threatened With Bankruptcy."

Manager Frick testified before the congressional committee that if the wages of less than four hundred men in his army of 3,000 workmen were not reduced, the firm was threatened with bankruptcy. Considering this assertion, the Bee quotes a bit of history which the St. Louis Republic has taken the pains to compile and the truth of which is apparent:

Mr. Andrew Carnegie is a man in the prime of life. He and his brother came to the United States in early youth. They were so poor that their mother took in washing to support them—a fact which we mention to her honor and to theirs. Half the lifetime of a generation has passed, during a large portion of which Mr. Carnegie has enjoyed all the luxuries of great wealth, expending the income of a dukedom every year, and the lowest estimate placed upon his present wealth is $25,000,000, while he is usually estimated as worth $40,000,000. Nor is he the only one who has become a millionaire out of the profits of his business. Henry Phipps, after drawing a few million out of the concern, has gone over to England to live like a lord. John Walker is living in luxurious retirement, having taken out some millions of dollars, more or less, as his share. Henry Abbott has just parted with a small interest which he owned in the company, and though only in the forties has millions enough to support himself in luxurious idleness for the rest of his life. H. C. Frick, the present manager and president, is several times a millionaire as the result of his good fortune in owning a small interest in the Carnegie concern. It is probably an underestimate to say that within the last twenty years the Carnegies and their partners have cleared $50,000,000 as the profits of their business, after paying all the expenses of operation, including the wages of their workingmen.

Mr. Frick's plea of reduction in prices of manufactured steel would have better effect if he could show that when prices were twelve and fifteen dollars per ton above cost of manufacture, he made equitable division with his workingmen. When he gets $600 per ton from the government for rolled armor plate, what per cent. of the profits goes to the men who make it? He refuses to show the figures. However princely his profits, by virtue of government favoritism, he is bounden upon honor to share them with his workingmen, for in their name and by their votes did he receive these favors. How has he done this?

A National Art Academy.

A number of art patrons in this country, including Mrs. Levi P. Morton, Miss Kate Field and John Armstrong Chanler, have introduced bills in congress to incorporate a National Academy of Art in the District of Columbia, "with full authority to collect and assemble works and products of art of every kind and character and to include an art school." There are many discouragements to meet in the establishment of such an enterprise. In document 1499, in the reports of collectors of customs, we find the ruling that plaster casts, designed for models for students of wood carving, are subject to duty. The importers show that these are "not merchantable," but, "as the education received from the use of them will be applied to the enhancement of the value of the work done by those using these models," it is decided by the collector of customs, in New York, that these goods, (not obtainable in this country, and of no possible use except to teach the designer and carver), are subject to 55 per cent. duty. The casts were imported in August, 1891, and the decision was published in regular report dated Januray, '92. It requires considerable courage to attempt to establish art schools in the face of such stupid laws and fool decisions.

The Disgrace of Idaho.

One of the most flagrant examples of the abuse of official power was the creation of a state out of the mining camp of Idaho by the republican party. At the time of its admission, July 3, 1890, it had 15,000 less population than the city of Toledo. Yet republican legislation gave to this borough the right to choose a representative in the house, two senators, and three presidential electors. Now in the midst of its mining troubles it is utterly powerless to protect itself, and the United States troops must protect it. The governor could muster only 196 men. In the name of justice to other states and for the dignity of statehood, this riotous mining camp should be united with contiguous people to make a decent showing for its claim or should be remanded to its territorial condition. The injustice of its present possession of political power along with its utter impotence for self-preservation, and the fact that it has less than one-half the population for the unit of representation in congress is plain and undeniable. Indeed, the party responsible has never attempted any defense.

Cost of One Man's Ugliness.

The determination of Manager Frick not to confer with his men or to submit to arbitration, has cost eleven lives, costs the state of Pennsylvania $25,000 a day, the company $10,000 a day and upwards, and the idle workmen suffer a loss of from $12,000 to $15,000 a day. And the individual losses of the militiamen, absent from their business pursuits, can scarcely be reckoned. A pretty good price to pay, that one man may persist in his ugly obstinacy. The locked-out workmen have been ready for conference and arbitration and Manager Frick could have made terms if he had desired.

"Our Chauncey" is not quite the success he might be, for campaign purposes. He has been in the habit of saying all things for all men, and now, like Mr. Carnegie's pious talk in print, they come back to plague him. He said, not long ago, "all taxation comes down, finally, on the shoulders of the last buyer, the consumer." He also said, "Grover Cleveland is the typical American," and nice things to prove his assertion. His republican co-laborers do not like to see these things in print. Out of respect to their feelings Mr. Depew has tried to deny or revise them, but the counter testimony of two or three stenographers is too much for him. Like women and religion, Chauncey should be kept out of politics.

It was poor policy on the part of Manager Frick to take armed guards to Homestead, when he knew that such action would precipitate a conflict.—N. Y. Commercial-Advertiser.

Not only was it "poor policy," but the law of the state of Pennsylvania makes a man guilty of the crime of murder if he incite to riot in which murder is committed. Manager Frick, knowing that riot would follow his action, is amenable to the laws of his state. And yet the Advertiser, after admitting his knowledge of consequences, goes on to argue that Mr. Frick had a perfect right to bring in the Pinkertons, as an armed guard.

The Iron Age, a trade journal loyal to the protected industries of Pennsylvania, publishes a table showing the cost of production of wire rods. Incidentally, with other items the necessary labor wage is mentioned—$1.95, in the production of a ton. Wire rods are protected by a duty of 6-10 of a cent per pound or $12 a ton, more than six times as much as the cost of labor. The duty is practically prohibitory, so the nice profitable deal on the one item of wire rods is plain, and the consumer sees that he pays ten dollars in bounty on every ton he buys, in addition to other, added profits.

Col. McClure's indorsement of Commander-in-Chief Harrity covers considerable ground. He says, "Mr. Harrity is one of the few men in politics who can size up a great emergency, and who is as discreet in his direction as he is heroic in execution." Mr. Harrity—is all right.

Gen. Butler said, "as a lawyer, I believe fully that those in charge of the Carnegie company who organized this riotous invasion could be indicted and punished under the law against conspiracy to break the peace and commit murder and I hope they will be."

"We point with pride" to retaliation against Canada. It's another name for reciprocity. It has taken such strong hold that leading Canadian houses decide they will not trouble themselves to exhibit at the world's fair.

Not a very brave spectacle: President Harrison sent out invitations from government headquarters to the nations of the earth to "come to our Fair." Now the government decides it will not help pay the bills at all, or lend its aid to the entertainment of the guests.

It made no great difference with the result so far as Chicago is concerned, how the house voted on the fair appropriation bill. The city would never accept the loan with the Sunday-closing string hitched to it.

The Bee is in receipt of a neat invitation from the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, to be present at the opening of their fine new building, Wednesday, July 27. An engraving of the handsome new nine-story building, which faces on Washington and Johnson stretes, a flat-iron corner, shows what deserved prosperity has attended the Eagle. The Bee knows by recent experience, the delight of occupying a commodious new building, and sends congratulations and good wishes, regretting that presence in person will not be possible. Long may the Eagle flap its strong and healthy democratic wings over a broad domain of country.

A Nashville Tennessean tells a Chicago reporter that the majority of the southern people are fairly bigoted in their adherence to the Puritan Sabbath and that their representatives stood "for their constituents" in the house vote. And yet the south is so desperately wicked the church people of the north can scarcely affiliate with their southern brethren.

Philadelphia closed the world's fair Sundays and as high as 5,000 "important personages," at a time had the grounds to themselves on these special days. "Imported personages" would like this history repeated.

This is old-fashioned July weather. Ho for the yellow wheat fields and the harvest apples.

CURRENT COMMENT.

They may try to split the solid south, but a bayonet is a poor article to do any splitting with.—Philadelphia Times.

The only real concern which the American public feels in the defeat of Henry M. Stanley for parliament is the apprehension that his disastrous venture in politics may induce him to return to the lecture field.—Kansas City Star.

There is one power that can prevent the passage of a home rule bill by the next parliament, and that is the house of lords. But it will be a very sad day for the peers when they undertake to exercise that right. In the present economy of Great Britain the opposition of the peers to the house of commons is one of the functions not to be exercised, like the queen's veto, for example.—New York World.

Grover Cleveland's message of 1887 is a document for the times. The corruption an idle surplus would tempt has been tempted. Wages are no higher, though prices of wearing apparel and cutlery have gone up. Taxes upon the homes are higher, and labor troubles—due in many cases to attempted reductions in wages—have been incessant since the McKinley bill passed. In potteries, carpet mills, glass factories, iron working establishments and coke regions there have been strikes. Tariff reform is mighty, and Cleveland is its prophet.—Kansas City (Mo.) Times.

The results of fusion at the west and northwest will have a tendency to improve Mr. Cleveland's chances at the expense of Mr. Harrison's. It is quite possible that no state will be removed from the republican column by any of the plans now being formulated by the democrats and "populists" of Kansas and the adjacent region, but whatever effect these schemes may have will be favorable to the democrats rather than to their administration opponents. And this is exactly what the alliance and people's party movement has foreshadowed from the start. —Providence Journal.

Let congress investigate Carnegie's Homestead mill by all means. It is to all intents and purposes a United States institution supported by a United States tax on all the people who directly or indirectly use steel or iron. Before a sugar planter can receive the bounty of 2 cents a pound on his raw sugar he must submit all the details of his business to searching investigation by treasury agents to prevent false returns of the quantity produced. The investigation of the sugar growers' business is so minute and inquisitorial that the governor of Texas declined to subject the state's sugar plantation to it and vetoed an act of the legislature accepting the bounty. Why should the iron maker be favored above the sugar maker? If Carnegie, by the aid of congress, collects from the people a bounty "for the benefit of the workingmen," let congress see to it that the workingmen get it.—Denver Times.

Another distinguished man, deeply learned in the law, has died and left a will that seems destined to be quarrelled over. The testament in question is that of the late Prof. Dwight of the Columbia law school, but in this case it is not through any lack of the testator's familiarity with the law that the trouble rises. It appears that in his last illness Prof. Dwight had instructed his lawyers to draw up a new will, and this was brought to him, read over, the attesting witnesses were present, and it only remained for him to sign it in order to make it a perfect instrument. A pen was put into his hands, and he wrote so much of his name as this "Theodore W. Dwi" when he fell back upon his pillow, dead. The question to determine is whether so much of the signature as this makes a legal will. If there were to be any contest of the will, this might be a very serious question, and, as it is, the surrogate will be compelled to pass upon it before the will is admitted to probate.—Boston Herald.

ON THEIR WHEELS.

The Toledo Cadets Whirling About the Country,

Making a Record Clearly Out of Sight.

An Experience With a Ghost Last Night—arget Practice—Notes Picked Up by a Bee.

There was fun in camp last night. The boys hustled out the company ghost and gave the darkies a scare they won't forget in their lifetime. After roll call the ghost stories. Inky and Brownie, the two colored youngsters who are great favorites in camp, sat in the circle and listened. Their eyes stuck out and they shivered in their clothes when a story of a ghastly murder was related, and said to have occurred at the old culvert on the road to town just outside the camp. The stories had their effect on the darkies and half of the jokers' work was done.

The company has a horse and wagon used to tote things over from town, and every night it is taken over to the stable at the village. After taps the captain ordered Inky and Brownie to drive the rig over.

The vision of the ghost at the culvert arose in Inky's mind, and he tried to squirm out of the job.

"Ise done forgot whar dat stable is, cap'n, shua's yo bo'n. I couldn't go there no how," he said.

"You hustle right over and take Brownie with you," shouted the captain.

"Ise tired, cap'n," put in Brownie, "dat ho's jest 's good here as eney whar else."

"Yes," said Inky, "taint no use goin' to town to-night. Yo bettah leave dat animile right here. Dat's best idee, cap'n."

Cap'n was obdurate, however, and in the shivering boys went, taking a lantern [illegible] the dark road and crept along the hill. Will Welbon was lying in waite at the culvert with a gang. He held a camp chair above his head and had sheets thrown over the whole thing. When the wagon reached him, he bobbed up as if coming from the gulley, and commenced to open and shut the camp stool. The coons gave one yell, threw the lantern and reins in the air and fell backwards out of the seat and rolled from the end of the box. They picked themselves up and started for camp, yelling like fiends. Their rubber boots, pounding on the grass, sounded like a herd of elephants. Capt. McMaken and the boys rolled on the ground, nearly splitting with laughter. Brownie flew into a tent and slid under a cot, where he remained until daylight. Inky disappeared in the darkness.

This morning the boys went to Inky's quarters and found him sleeping. They picked up the cot, Inky and all, and carried it out on the company street, where they dumped it. Inky rolled out in his night clothes, and it was found that he had been sleeping with a small rifle on one side and a hatchet on the other. Inky looked up at the captain and said: "Boss, dat 'ar hors' 's got to go to town in daylight after dis shua or I's goin' to be busy somewhere else."

The target practice yesterday resulted as follows—a possible 15:

The war department has an eye on the Toledo Cadets just now. France and Germany have adopted the bicycle for military work, and the matter is being studied by all countries. The Cadets being the first company thus equipped in the United States, their work on the wheel is of great importance.

Col. Howe will report to the adjutant-general of the state on the efficiency of the wheels as used by the Cadets, and Capt. Helstand will keep the war department informed. It was decided by the officers to have a run some time during camp to test the machines on country roads fully armed and equipped.

Consequently this morning the whole company started out mounted, with knapsacks, haversacks guns, coats, rations and everything necessary for a soldier on a march. The lead of a soldier equipped in heavy marching order amounts to something, and ordinary wheelmen have no idea of what military work on a wheel means.

Capt. McMaken telegraphed the Bee as follows from Tontogany this morning:

"The entire company made the run from camp to Tontogany, a distance of eight miles, in one hour and 18 minutes. The actual running time was one hour and one minute. There were a number of new riders in line. We leave Tontogany for Bowling Green at 9:25 a. m."

This means 7 1-2 minutes to the mile, with many new riders—considerably better than walking.

A second telegram from Lieut. Watters is as follows:

"The Cadets left Tontogany at 9:25 o'clock and arrived at Bowling Green at 10:25 o'clock. The actual time was 44 minutes. The distance is about 6 1-2 miles. Two carriers went ahead and made it in 32 minutes."

The company made the run at the rate of a mile in less than seven minutes and the carriers made about a mile in five minutes.

Camp Scatterings.

The camp is full of visitors.

De Cadets is der bestes vot is.

The ladies are holding down the camp to-day.

The boys will break camp early Monday morning.

A big crowd will go to camp from Toledo Sunday

E. A. Weed and R. R. Rogers were at the camp to-day.

F. B. Hartman, of Toledo, called on the boys in camp to-day.

Mrs. Scott, Miss Edith Garrett and Miss Scott were at camp yesterday.

The ladies call the firing at skirmish drill pig killing just to tease the boys.

The boys get 60 loaves of brown bread and 20 of white every morning from Tait's.

Mrs. Dresser, Misses Dresser and Miss McMillen, of Detroit, drove to camp yesterday from Toledo.

Miss May Tipple and Mrs. Wm. Welbon arrived in camp yesterday and will remain the rest of the week.

About 20 ladies and gentlemen from Napoleon came up to camp on a steamer party yesterday and remained all day.

There was a rumor in town yesterday that some one was injured in camp. It was unfounded. The boys are safe, happy and in good health, all of them.

Col. Bunker, of the Sixteenth regiment; Quartermaster Flickinger, Adjutant Rickenbaugh, Capt. Holbrook and Dr. Woods went down to camp this afternoon.

Will Schaefer spent yesterday in camp and had a big time fishing, swimming and visiting. He came up to Toledo this morning, and will go back Sunday morning on his wheel.

Some of the visitors at camp yesterday were the Misses Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, Miss Florence Bergert, the Misses O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Trowbridge, Miss Julia Bronson, Miss Sharp.

Jim Lasalle tried to eat a raspberry pie as he was going to bed last night. He was sitting on the edge of the bed when the captain peeped in. Jim dropped the pie, and the juice made his robes de nuit look like Jacob's coat.

The Gendron's photographer arrived in camp this morning, and will take some more and larger pictures of the company mounted. The wheels turned out for the Cadets are beauties. They are as perfect a military wheel as could be desired.

The Misses Phillips and Miss Burgert went to town yesterday and did some shopping. They brought Charley O'Brien a little round straw hat with a nice ribbon. Ed Pixley was presented with a red polka dot tie and Will Phillips received a sweet boy's hat. The ladies purchased some—well, never mind, for themselves.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

An Indiana Photographer Gets Into Jail.

Hammond, Ind., July 22.—Photographer C. G. Page, whose young wife died in Bangor, Mich., July 5, of poison under suspicious circumstances, was arrested last night, charged with murder.

Mrs. Eliza Tobin, of South Chicago, Page's partner, was arrested on the same charge.

They were committed without bail.

Albert Taylor, an employe in charge of their place of business at South Chicago, was brought to this city at midnight and placed under arrest.

Mrs. Tobin was taken to Crown Point, while the men were locked up here.

The dead woman's father was here and said that an analysis of the stomach revealed the presence of arsenic. The examination will probably be held at Crown Point next Tuesday.

JUST BEGINNING.

The Legal Battle Between the Buckeye Brewery

And the English Syndicate—The Case Will be Taken Up and New Suits Commenced.

The decision of Judge Ricks against the English syndicate and in favor of the Buckeye Brewing company yesterday, has not ended the legal fight by any means.

"It is only the beginning," Mr. E. W. Tolerton, the attorney for the syndicate, said to a Bee this morning.

"What do you propose doing?" he was asked.

"Well, we propose taking the case to a higher court and will commence new suits."

Mr. Tolerton refused to say on what grounds the new suits would be commenced.

The court decided that the Buckeye Brewing company had not the right to make such a contract as was made.

The syndicate, it is said, will sue Mr. Coghlin personally. He, acting as agent for the brewery, is personally responsible for damages accruing out of the failure of the contract to be legally consummated.

The syndicate's bill of expenses is placed at $25,000. This will also be sued for.

On the face of it, it looks as if the battle was only beginning.

New Orleans Moves in the Right Direction.

Rumsellers Will Have to Close Their Shop at Least One Day in the Week.

New Orleans, July 22.—An organized effort is to be made to enforce the Sunday closing law, which has been inoperative because of the strong opposition of saloonkeepers.

The Sunday Rest league and the American Federation of Labor, which latter now has a strong hold on the workingmen of the city, will work together to enforce the law, and it is believed the rumsellers will not dare oppose this strong combination.

The active campaign will begin next Sunday.

WAS EVERYBODY STEALING?

Another Sensation in Milwaukee.

The Meter Department of the Water Works is Out of Line Some Thirty Odd Thousand Dollars.

Milwaukee, July 22.—The expert accountant who found that the late Secretary Shattenberg, of the school board, robbed the city of nearly $50,000 before he committed suicide, and that Public Librarian Linderfelt swindled the city out of $10,000, now finds a discrepancy of $34,000 in the meter accounts of the water department.

While the discovery has been known to Mayor Somers and other city officials for some days, it only leaked out last night and all the officials are reluctant about giving particulars.

City Engineer Benzenberg, however, admits the amount of the discrepancy. While he accuses no one of stealing the money he says the city has lost in the last few years $24,000 through the failure to make collections and otherwise. The discovery will be officially reported to the common council at its next meeting.

The Senate Grows Eloquent on the Subject.

Argument Not Completed—Strong Points Made on Both Sides of the Measure.

Washington, July 22.—When 2:10 o'clock had arrived yesterday afternoon Mr. Washburn's anti-option bill was again laid before the senate as unfinished business.

Mr. Washburn at once moved to strike out section 12, requiring dealers in futures to take out a license and keep a record. The section required every man who possessed the property which he sold, and who dealt in futures, to take out a license and keep a record. That requirement was certainly not a great hardship; but as it might in some cases prove to be an annoyance or embarrassment, he thought it wise to have it stricken out entirely. He added that it was the purpose of the bill to strike out that great iniquity—gambling in agricultural and food products—without interfering with the legitimate trade and commerce of the country.

No action was taken on the amendment, and Mr. Daniel proceeded with his argument against the bill, which he had begun yesterday. He thought it strange to see members of the democratic party allying themselves with a so-called tax measure which was for everything else but revenue. It appeared to him to be an exceedingly harsh measure. From what code of penal statutes did this free American republic gather the idea of piling up fine and imprisonment on transactions that were acknowledged to be legitimate? He regarded the bill as an abuse of the power of taxation, and he would offer in connection with it an amendment to repeal the provision of law imposing a tax of 10 per cent. on the circulation of state banks.

It was impossible for the southern states to procure a sufficiency of capital through the national banking system. That system had fulfilled its function. It was going out of existence ex necessitate rei. The time was ripe, and the hour had come when the government ought to restore the rights of the states to use such financial facilities as they could themselves invent for purposes of domestic use.

Mr. White next addressed the senate in opposition to the anti-option bill. In his judgment there never had been a more pernicious, a more vicious or more flagrantly unconstitutional piece of legislation brought before the senate. There never had been a piece of legislation before the senate more calculated to undermine and destroy the very foundation of the government or more calculated to do untold and untellable harm to the American people. It was full of gross financial and business heresies. Its effect would be to reduce the price of agricultural products to every producer.

The senator from Minnesota had moved to strike out the twelfth section; but he would retain the thirteenth section, so as to keep vested in the officers of the government the arbitrary powers of search and investigation. The purpose of the bill was to strike down contracts entered into under the acts of state law. It did not assert that power. The only semblance of constitutional authority which the bill had was the twelfth section; and yet the senator from Minnesota had climbed up that tree—under which the senator thought trade was to be protected, but under which he (Mr. White) thought death and destruction to trade and business lurked—and had let himself down by sawing off the only semblance of constitutionality of the bill.

The senator from Minnesota put on his foreign glasses, and had turned to the American people and proposed to put on their limbs foreign shackles in regard to all those great rights which were theirs—theirs to-day, to-morrow and forever. Continuing, Mr. White said: "If trading in futures were prohibited in boards of trade, it would break out in the 'bucket shops,' and the title of the bill would have to be modified by making it read: 'An act to stimulate gambling in agricultural products and to encourage the opening of bucket shops by forbidding gambling in four or five products and licensing it as to all others.'"

To the great commercial exchanges of the country every man was able to trade on an equal footing. There was a "fair and square deal." The men who bought and the men who sold got information that was gathered from all over the world. They were all on equal footing. Those exchanges were the greatest instrumentalities in favor of the equality and liberty of men. The poor man with a small capital going into chambers of commerce or boards of trade, and having all information exposed to his view needs only the light of the reason given to him to protect himself from being gouged. The purpose of the pending bill was to strike down all the trading that could be done at an equal advantage, to stimulate the trading in which the small man would be at the mercy of the big men, and to destroy all of the protective elements which modern society and modern commerce had evolved.

Before Mr. White had finished his speech the anti-option bill went over till to-day.

TO SEIZE THE WHISKY.

The Canadian Government Hot After a Gang of Smugglers.

Ottawa, Ont., July 22.—The government has received word that four customs officers a few days ago visited Isle Aux Coudres in the lower St. Lawrence, in the hope of unearthing the portion of the cargo of smuggled whisky which the notorious Bouchard is reported to have landed there, but that they were set upon by Bouchard's men and put to flight. The minister of militia has ordered a company of militia to the island to seize the smuggled liquors. Bloodshed is feared, as Bouchard and his gang are desperate men.

THE ADAIR ROBBERY.

A New Story Which Places the Guard in Bad Light.

Sedalia, Mo., July 22.—Agent Charles A. Hayward, of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad, who was in charge of the office at Adair, when a train was held up there by the Dalton gang last Thursday night, tells a story of the robbery which differs considerably from any yet published. Mr. Hayward says:

"The hold-up occupied about thirty minutes and during that time the only persons visible were the robbers, the conductor, brakeman, engineer and fireman. I heard considerable shooting, but did not see a single member of the guard or either of the detectives.

"Most of the shooting was done by a robber who stood at the end of a mail car and shot into the air to frighten the people in the train. There was some firing from the opposite side of the train from where I stood and I afterwards learned that it was done by the guard.

"It struck me as peculiar that the guard should have continued on the train after it left Adair. They could have taken possession of the depot and used the wires to obtain reinforcements. After the express car had been gutted, the robbers mounted their horses and left. They rode through the town and shot the two doctors. They had no wagon."

NEW GAS TRUSTEE

Will Hail From the East Side This Trip,

And His Name Will be Robert Barber —Dr. Forbes is Also Mentioned.

Mayor Emmick is to-day considering two names for gas trustee to succeed Mr. Backus.

It has been intimated that the name of T. P. Brown would be withdrawn, and those of Robert Barber and Dr. Forbes presented.

Mayor Emmick, however, does not see his way clear to withdraw Brown's name, and it may remain.

The East Side, it appears, has got the pull this trip, and Mr. Robert Barber will undoubtedly succeed Mr. Backus.

Dr. Forbes is at present a sinking fund trustee, and it is a question if he can legally hold both offices. Mayor Emmick will probably announce the appointee to-morrow.

ENGLISH POLITICS.

A Very Turbulent State of Affairs.

Gladstone Charged With Scheming to Get Into Power.

London, July 22.—A sensation is caused by an editorial in the Post, headed "Why Resign." The article is believed to forshadow the policy of the government. It says:

"Assuming that the opposition has a slended majority on the motion that the government does not possess the confidence of the country, why should the ministers immediately resign, in view of the fact that they have not to deal with a compact opposition, but only a disjointed horde of factions?

"How can Lord Salisbury and his colleagues conscientiously reconcile their duty to their sovereign and their party with an impetuous abandonment of power in consequence of the transient action of the horde which now disfigures the character and degrades the traditions of parliamentary opposition?"

The Times, the article concludes, "should not act beyond advising the sovereign to prorogue parliament until the normal period of assemblage arrives."

The Times says:

"The present plan of Mr. Gladstone appears to be to get the Irish members to aid him in rigging up the electoral machinery in order to secure him a majority in the next general election, enabling him to laugh at the Irish vote. His plan is not unadroit, although the nationalists are hardly so simple as to cut their own throats by helping to execute it."

"IF I WERE FAIR."

("Then she looked into her mirror.")

If I were fair!
If I had little hands, and slender feet;
If to my cheeks the color rich and sweet
Came at a word, and faded at a frown;
If I had clinging curls of burnish'd brown;
If I had dreamy eyes aglow with smiles,
And graceful limbs, and pretty girlish wiles—
If I were fair, Love would not turn aside;
Life's paths, so narrow, would be broad and wide.

If I were fair!

If I were fair,
Perhaps like other maidens I might hold
A true heart's store of tried and tested gold.
Love waits on Beauty, though sweet Love alone,
It seems to me, for aught might well atone.
But Beauty's charm is strong, and Love obeys
The mystic witchery of her shy ways.
If I were fair, my years would seem so few;
Life would unfold sweet pictures to my view'

If I were fair!

If I were fair,
Perhaps the baby, with a scream of joy,
To clasp my neck would throw away its toy,
And hide its dimples in my shining hair,
Bewilder'd by the maze of glory there!
But now—oh! shadow of a young girl's face;
Uncolor'd lips that Pain's cold fingers trace,
You will not blame the child whose—wee hands close,
Not on the blighted bud, but on the rose
So rich and fair.

If I were fair,
Oh! just a little fair, with some soft touch
About my face to glorify it much!
If no one shunn'd my presence, or my kiss,
My heart would almost break beneath its bliss.
'Tis said, each pilgrim shall attain his goal,
And perfect light shall flood each oblinded soul,
When day's flush merges into sunset's bars,
And night is here. And then beyond the stars
I shall be fair!

—Edith Rutter in the Spectator.

LEGEND OF JACOB'S WELL

Workmen in making some repairs tore up a portion of the sidewalk in front of No. 16 Jacob street, says the New York Herald, and discovered an old well, which, according to tradition, was dug before the revolution, when old Peter Stuyvesant was governor. The well was known as Jacob's well, and a legend of love is told concerning it. In the long ago, when the city was but a collection of frame houses, an old Dutchman, Peter Von der Honk by name, owned a farm here. A portion of it was ground which was then, and it is now, known as the Swamp. On a sort of oasis in this boggy land old Peter had dug a well which had become famous for its sweet water, and many a young blade of the village would walk out that way of an evening, his sweetheart on his arm, to enjoy a drink of the cool water and a quiet walk. For a number of years, because of the predilection of lovers for the place, the well was called the Trysting Fountain. Its name of Jacobs well came about in a peculiar manner later, and in that is the story.

Now old Peter had a daughter whose name, unfortunately, has been lost in the labyrinth of years. She was accounted one of the handsomest hereabouts. Peter wanted her to marry rich. So when young Jacob Van Pelt—handsome, debonair and dashing, but poor—came a-courting, the old man drove him from the door and forbade his daughter to look upon such a pauper.

So, lacking the roof of the farmhouse to meet under and the warmth of the great open kitchen fireplace to keep their love at a proper temperature, they met under the roof of the heavens.

It was not long, however, before old Peter discovered the tricks of the youngsters, and, threatening to shoot Jacob if he came near his house or his daughter again, locked the little beauty in her bedroom under the great drooping eaves until she should get some sense into her fair head.

Love, then, as now, laughs at locksmits and despises the puny efforts of angry parents. So, while old Peter smoked his long-stemmed pipe at the door of the tavern the lovers found some means of communicating with each other. Whether the old man found this out or not history telleth not. Certain it is, however, if the legend be true, he returned earlier than his wont one evening in winter while the old vrau was snoring under a couple of feather beds inside and met a sight which opened his sleepy eyes.

There was Jacob, standing on the ground under his daughter's window. Old Peter might have stood this act of disobedience were it only his disobedient daughter's face at the window he saw. But no, it was something worse than that. A rope of bedclothes hung from the window to the ground, and by it stood his daughter, just descended, clasped in the arms of her penniless lover.

The young folks heard him coming, and, clasping hands, ran with the fleetness of young feet chased by an angry father. Across the fields and over the stone walls they went, old Peter's oaths and puffing breath growing fainter as they left him behind. Into the swamp and along the path leading to the fountain they sped, faster and faster. But in their excitement and dread of capture they forgot the well to which the path led until, alas! with a stumble and a shout, which found echo in a wild shriek from the eloping girl, Jacob plunged into the well.

She would not leave her lover even for fear of her angry father, and there she stood, her flaxen braids blowing in the cold night wind of the winter until old Peter appeared. How the phlegmatic Dutchman swore and tore may be imagined, but if he did not wish his daughter to marry Jacob, neither did he want the man to die in the well and spoil the good water at the bottom. So he alarmed the neighbors, a rope was brought and Jacob, wet, cold and defeated for this time, was dragged to the surface.

Whether old Peter took Jacob home and gave him dry clothes and some schnapps history again telleth us not. But this much it does tell us—that the tears of the girl and her entreaties, supported by the argument of Jacob, prevailed to soften his heart, and long before another winter they were united in marriage, and Jacob came to the old homestead to help take care of the farm.

It may be supposed that walking along that path in later years, with little blue-eyed children playing about them, they told their story of their escapade and pointed to the well down which Jacob had tumbled so unceremoniously. At any rate it was thereafter to this day known as Jacob's well.

THE SHREWDEST FAKIR.

"About the shrewdest fakir this country has known recently died in a Cincinnati hospital," said Thomas E. Burton, at the Lindell. "His name was Robinson Smith. I met him some years ago in Richmond, Ind., and took quite a fancy to the fellow. He was in my room at the hotel one day I showed him a paper for which I had lately paid $5. It was the something-or-other Gazette, and purported to have been printed in 1800. It contained a long notice of Washington's death, which occurred just prior to its date, and quite a lot of other matter of interest to the antiquary. I considered that I had secured a veritable treasure, but Smith took me to his room and showed me two large trunks full of these ancient Gazettes, scarce dry from the press. He had printed them in Boston, and was flooding the country with them at from $1 to $10 apiece, according to the size of the sucker's pocketbook. Five or six years ago I met him in St. Paul. I had secured another treasure. It was a choice collection of Confederate money of all denominations, from $5 to 5 cents. He took me by the arm, and marching me to his room, showed me more Confederate money than the south issued during the war. He had a press running night and day making it. When Jesse James was killed he traveled through the west and sold to credulous relic-hunters about 1,000 shirts, which he alleged, the bandit had on at the time of his death. He cut them up into pieces about two inches square, and sold these bits at from 25 cents to $1 apiece. I have lost all respect for relics since making Smith's acquaintance. Had he lived he would probably have sold all the crab apple trees in Indiana as fragments from the crown of thorns worn on Calvary."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Bingo—"I would like to ask you down to my cottage by the sea, old man, but we have only two bedrooms." Kinkley—"Oh! that's all right, who sleeps in the other one?" Bingo—"No one, but my wife has to have that one to hang up her clothes in."—Cloak Review.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Cardinal Gibbons is enjoying himself in Nova Scotia.

Edison has passed the 600 notch in his list of patents.

Blaine has recently received several offers from publishers for a new work on American politics.

Gustave Simon, author of "Women in the Twentieth Century," is a son of the famous Jules Simon.

The youngest officer in the Union army to wear the "double stars" was Gen. Pennypacker, of Pennsylvania. He was a colonel of volunteers at 20 and a brevet major-general when but six months past his 22nd birthday.

Cyrus W. Field died a poor man, his sole remaining provision for his family being life insurance policies which will realize some $45,000, a mere bagatelle to what which he once possessed and which he might have had at his death had not the confidence he had given been so basely abused.

Lord Tennyson has not taken much interest in the English elections. They happened in the haying season when milk was selling at four pence per quart. The dear old man never allows affairs of state or literary engagements to interfere with haymaking when there is a threat of bad weather hanging around.

Gustave Charpentier, author of "La Vie du Poete," which has just been produced at the Grand Opera in Paris with great success, is one of the youngest of the French composers, being barely 30 years old. Like the Coquelins, he emerged from a baker's shop into the artistic world; he is from Lorraine and was sent to Paris to study the violin by his native town of Tourcoing and became instead of a violinist a composer, having won the prix de Rome at the Conservatoire. Like Wagner, he writes the librettos of his operas himself. The "Vie du Poete" and a suite for orchestra entitled "Italy," are considered by French critics to mark him as one of the most masterly and promising of the young French composers.

CHILDREN OF ALL AGES

The Safest Way to Eat in This Hot Weather.

People Suffer, Not From Heat, But From Improper Food.

A Simple Suggestion That Will Make Life Happier in Vacation Time.

People don't suffer in the summer from the heat, but from improper food and—indigestion.

"Did you ever notice," says a writer in one of the magazines this month, "that in nine cases out of ten, when a man has been taken home from his work, having fallen with what is termed 'sunstroke,' his wife remembers that he had been complaining of some stomach trouble?"

Food is "improper" that fails to supply the system with what Doctor Gull aptly calls "the raw material of the blood."

The child who is trying to play all day in this vacation time and complains of headache, or cannot sleep, or, in spite of the out-door air and plenty of exercise, is pale and languid, or has no appetite at breakfast, and is fussy and irritable—that child is very numerous.

And the cause—

The child needs better food, food that will give nourishment to the brain and the nervous system and the muscles; food that contains the elements of nourishment, and repairs the waste that always goes on.

At night, just before bedtime, give the child or the invalid a glassful of lactated food. It makes a delicious drink; it contains all the food elements; it nourishes the digestive organs, and will draw the blood from the brain to the stomach, and the child will have calm and refreshing sleep.

In the morning, one who uses lactated food the night before, will feel like a new person, and will have a vigorous appetite for breakfast, a clear head and ambition and good spirits.

The overworked business man and the woman who feels "tired," any person who is out of sorts in this hot weather, should follow this plain suggestion, and drink a glassful of lactated food at night before retiring.

Lactated food is the proper nourishment for children of all ages, in the summer. It keeps the baby well, gives health to the child, brings strength and vigor to the middle-aged, and is a perfect diet for the old folks. It is not a medicine and it is not a secret mixture. It is a pure food, safe, simple and invaluable for infants and invalids. Physicians all recommend it, nurses use it, and it is a long and well-tried diet in nurseries and institutions for the aged and infirm. It is good.

HAYMARKET PRISONERS.

Another Attempt to Get Them Out of Prison.

Chicago, July 22.—A committee representing over 200 societies in and around Chicago, which have banded themselves together for the purpose of adopting measures to secure the release of some of the prisoners who are now serving terms in the state penitentiary for complicity in the Haymarket massacre, will meet to-morrow evening and effect a permanent organization.

It has been decided to keep the movement free from politics. The first work of the new organization will be of a missionary character, and pamphlets giving a full history of the case, and the reasons on which the petition for pardon is to be based, will be circulated throughout the state. Many prominent men have become interested in the movement, and there is a growing feeling that, in the case of some of the prisoners at least, the sentences were unnecessarily harsh.

Prosecuting Attorney McKnight left yesterday on a business trip to California and Oregon.

GRAND PICNIC.

There will be a free dancing pavilion, with good union music; interesting games, amusements, refreshments, etc. Delegates to national convention have been invited to stop over here and deliver a few addresses. The proceeds derived from the picnic are to be used toward having the general offices of the brotherhood located here. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

PUBLIC BATHS.

They Are a Great Success Across the Deep.

New York, July 22.—A dispatch from London says: The great system of public baths, which was begun some years ago through the efforts of leading philanthropists throughout the united kingdom, received an important addition today in the new public bath and wash houses of St. Mary, at Islington. The institution was dedicated with simple but impressive ceremonies, Mr. Bartley, M. P., acting on behalf of the donors, and the local magistrate of the town responding. These baths, with those in the Caledonian Road, opened last month, have cost considerably over half a million dollars.

JOHN H. WOODBURY, D. I., 125 W. 42d St., New York City.

MRS. MAYBRICK.

She Writes to Show Her Gratitude to Her Outside Friends.

New York, July 22.—A lady in this city who has taken an active part in the efforts in behalf of Mrs. Maybrick, the unfortunate American woman who is now undergoing a sentence of imprisonment for life in England for the alleged poisoning of her husband, has received a copy of the following letter written by the imprisoned woman to a friend of her mother's.

The letter contains the following touching passages:

"I despair of finding words to thank you for the comfort your letter gave me; it has done much to ease my life of its bitterness, and, above all, it helps me to feel that I am under God's care and protection.

"Only those who are mothers can realize the yearning with which I think of them day and night. It is kind of Sir Charles Russell and other eminent lawyers to study my case with earnestness and impartial judgment. I am still in the hospital, and am gaining strength daily. The officers are civil and humane in their treatment of all women."

WILL IT EVER HEAL?

Irishmen Are Still Far From United.

The Bitter Feeling Exists and Shows Itself on Every Occasion.

London, July 22.—Now that the excitement of the political campaign has passed over, some of those who were most violent a few days ago are beginning to realize that they have just emerged from a contest which has been characterized by more than its share of bitterness and abuse.

Stanley's experience with the electors of North Lambeth, although surprising to one not familiar with the etiquette of British elections, was not a marker to the rabidness with which the memory of Parnell was assailed by the erstwhile subjects of the uncrowned king.

The Rev. Father Benham, at an anti-Parnellite meeting in St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, opened his harangue by declaring that 1,900 years ago a man named Herod, whose blasphemous followers declared his voice to be the voice of God, was struck dead.

To-day Parnell was constantly flung in their faces. This man—whose memory he detested—had been a curse; but God had thrust him down into the grave, and there his bones were rotting and his flesh putrid.

The speaker continued, saying that the Parnellites were men who did honor to lasciviousness. Every man who liked to live a loose life, every drunkard, every man who liked to beat his wife, these were Parnellites. Every virtuous man was on the federation side.

The reverend father's audience contained a few Parnellites, and, to their honor be it said, the speaker was hustled off the platform on short notice, and the meeting broken up.

FACTS FROM FOSTORIA.

Electric Light Works Soon to be in Order.

Freight Engineer Badly Injured—Contract for a Sewer Awarded—General Mention.

Fostoria, O., July 22.—(Special)—John Davis, a freight engineer, was thrown from his locomotive yesterday afternoon against a barb wire fence and badly injured. The accident occurred on the Toledo & Ohio Central, southeast of town, and was caused by the wheels of the engine striking a steer and tilting it to one side.

Joseph Conghan died yesterday afternoon, aged 44 years.

The electric light works which were badly wrecked a couple of weeks ago will soon be in running order. A new Wood dynamo, capacity 80 arc lights, and a new 80 horse power engine have been purchased and will be placed in position to-morrow.

Company D, 16th regiment, will have about 60 men in camp at Fremont, July 28 to August 3, inclusive. The boys leave on the 27th and expect to have a grand time.

Last evening the board of sewer commissioners awarded the contract for material for District No. 1, to the following parties: Cement, W. H. Baunister, Fostoria; iron work, Shunk Plow Co., Bucyrus; brick, Henry Karg; Fostoria; sewer pipe, U. S. Fire Clay Co., Pittsburg.

CAUTION.

Imitations have been put upon the market so closely resembling Allcock's Porous Plasters in general appearance as to be well calculated to deceive. It is, however, in general appearance only that they compare with Allcock's, for they are worse than worthless, inasmuch as they contain deleterious ingredients which are apt to cause serious injury. Remember that Allcock's are the only genuine porous plasters—the best external remedy ever produced; and when purchasing plasters do not only ask for but see that you get Allcock's Porous Plasters.

MRS. HENDERSON STILL ALIVE.

She Returned to Clear Her Husband, Who Was Charged With Her Death.

Phoenix-like, another human body that had been numbered with the silent has risen from its ashes. Mrs. Joseph Henderson, mourned as dead for over a month, has returned to the flesh. All this time the police of McKeesport have been trying night and day to connect a thread of evidence between a bit of charred remains in her former home, in Mifflin township, with her husband, Joseph Henderson. Their hope was to make the thread a cord strong enough to strangle the husband on that great gateway to eternity—the gallows. Yesterday she appeared at police headquarters and declared that she was Mrs. Henderson, and instead of being a wanderer in the mists of eternity she was only living on Mount Washington, a sort of halfway house on the road to heaven.

Joe Henderson, as he was known in the country, was a southern negro. He was a shiftless, ne'er-do-well sort of a fellow, a lover of bad whisky, and not a very ardent lover of his wife. He was generally too strong to work, and the house he set up for his southern wife in Mifflin township was a little 12x20 palace set upon four posts.

Henderson spent his time with the lavishness of a king. He never had anything else to spend. In early life he kept his master's children on the old plantation, but in his latter days in the north he only kept what he could get without trouble. Living the easy, retired life that he did, he had a great deal of surplus energy which he always expended in convincing his wife of the authority of man over the weaker sex.

Along in April of this year he went home with a comfortable jag. The neighbors declare they heard screams coming from the house. That night the glow from his burning house lighted up the whole countryside. From that day Mrs. Henderson, who is nearly white, was not seen. The tongue of gossip wagged and the country folks said they heard strange noises when on a night their pathway led by the ruins of the negro's home. The man was shunned, but as he had never floated beyond his depth in the social swim, their indifference did not cut him much.

He soon drifted to McKeesport, where he formed an affection for a pretty colored girl, Annie Whitney. The affection was returned. They called it love for a while and went to housekeeping. But soon the old desire to teach women their inferiority came upon him and the second Mrs. Henderson received such a beating that the authorities interfered. Henderson was arrested. The story of the burned house in Mifflin township leaked out. This was coupled with the fact that the wife was missing. Henderson was accused of the murder of his wife. He protested that he had never killed anything but time and a few of the neighbors' chickens. This did not avail. Mayor Tillbrook sentenced him to 60 days in the workhouse in order to give the police time to hunt up the murder. Since then the police have been hard at work.

Yesterday the dead wife surprised everybody by turning up at the Central station. She said she had left her home March 17, because she was weary of her husband. She went to Mount Washington to a friend, at Kearsage and Syracuse streets. She has been sick, and did not know until Saturday that she had been mourned as dead. She wanted to clear her husband, and so came to the police. She said she could find a number of people who would identify her as Mrs. Henderson. The husband is still at the workhouse.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever see anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced. It seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

On examining the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes particles of albumen will appear, or the color be of a thin, milkish hue, again changing to a dark torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. The doctor will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs. Consultation free. IN TRADING CIRCLES

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Currents for Produce and Other Articles.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 244,421 bushels and at five other western points 589,669 bushels, aggregate 844,090 bushels. On the corresponding Friday in 1891 the receipts were 970,667 bushels with only 105,080 bushels of northwestern wheat.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were 147,239 bushels and flour to an aggregate of 240,000 bushels. Exports of corn 126,754 bushels, and of oats 15,331 bushels.

English markets are dull for wheat and corn, with better quotations for wheat at Liverpool.

The Markets To-Day.

The receipts of wheat to-day, as given elsewhere, at seven western points, are 836,790 bu. On the corresponding Thursday in 1891, 920,657 bu. In 1890, 302,831 bu. In 1889, 331,812 bu. In 1888, 463,427 bu., and in 1887 553,783 bu., showing a movement nearly as great as last year, and much greater than in the four years preceding 1891.

The receipts of wheat at four important Atlantic ports in five days this week have been 1,837,000 bu. In the corresponding entire week in 1891 the receipts were 1,875,000 bu. In 1890, 1,534,000 bu. In 1889, 599,000 bu.

It will thus be seen that the movement of wheat at western points nearly equal 1891 and exceed them at four Atlantic ports.

The wheat markets in this country today have hardly been maintained. The fluctuations have been narrow, and the events of the day without much interest. The local trading at Chicago furnishes nothing to bull prices on. The Hatch bill as it stands has a bearish influence, and is expected to become a law in some amended form. There is not much other news that will bear repetition. The temperature in the northwest is 68 to 74, and that will not hurt anything.

The markets close a shade lower.

Corn furnishes no new feature of interest. The weather in the great corn belt, on the whole, day in and day out, is favorable for a crop if frosts come late. The markets close, generally, a shade lower.

In New York wheat closes 1-2c lower; corn lower.

In Chicago August wheat closed 3-8c and September 1-4c lower. August corn 1-2c and September 1-4c lower. Oats unchanged.

In Toledo the trading in wheat has been light, and principally for August; July continues to command a premium of 1 to 1 1-8c, but if our receipts continue at present rate, it will soon be absorbed. Opening prices were at about yesterday's close, but after limited fluctuations prices closed 1-4c lower all around. On the call July sold at 81 1-2; August at 80 1-2 to 80 1-4. After the call July sold at 81 1-2 to 81 3-4 and closed at 81 1-2; August sold at 80 1-2 to 80 3-4 and closed at 80 3-8; September sold at 80 3-4 to 81 1-4 and closed at 81. Cash wheat was not largely dealt in. The receipts are being applied on July contracts and are moving out gradually; No. 2 soft sold at 81 1-2 to 81 3-4 and closed at 81 1-2 bid, a loss of 1-4; No. 3 soft at 76; No. 4 soft at 72 1-2 to 72. Wheat and rye, 72; sample white at 74; smutty, 75; No. 2 white at 78 1-2.

Corn, No. 2 at 50 1-2; No. 3 at 49 1-2; No. 4 at 44 1-2. Oats, No. 2 at 33 1-4. Rye, on the call July at 70 1-2 to 70 3-4.

Clover seed was again higher with some little excitement in the trading, and a good deal of firmness. On the call October sold at 5 30 and 5 32 1-2 up to 5 40. After the call the same futures sold at 5 50. The sales of the day were large for the season.

Close in New York.

New York, July 22.—Money on call loaned easy at 1 1-2@2 per cent. Exchange quiet and steady; posted rates $4 88@4 89 1-2; actual rates $4 87@4 87 1-4 for 60 days and $4 88 1-4@4 88 1-2 for demand.

Governments steady; currency, 6s, 106 bid; 4s coupon, 116 bid; extended 2s, registered, 100 bid.

Without any great activity in the stock market prices continued to improve. Sales 78,142 shares.

Flour strong; Minnesota extra, $2 25@4 85; superfine, $1 75@2 35; fine, $1 65@2 10.

Wheat opened weak at 3-8c to 1-2c decline, rallied 1-4c, and at noon was steady; No. 2 red winter, 88 1-2c; July, 86 3-8c; August, 85 3-8c; September, 85 5-8c.

Corn opened steady at 1-4c to 3-8c decline, rallied 1-4c and at noon was steady; No. 2 mixed, 54 1-2c; July 56 5-8c; August, 55 1-2c; September, 54 3-8c.

Oats opened steady; at noon the market was unchanged. No. 2 mixed, 36 1-4@36 1-2c; August, 35 1-2c; September, 35c. Rye dull, 75@78c for carlots. Barley dull. Molasses, light demand; New Orleans, 30@25c. Refined sugar quiet but steady; cutloaf and crushed, 5@5 1-8c; powdered, 4 11-16@4 7-8c; granulated, 4 5-16@4 1-2c. Coffee steady; fair rio cargoes, 14 1-2c. Rice fairly active and firm; fair to extra, 4 3-8@6 1-2c. Pork quiet; old mess, $12 75@13 25. Butter slow and steady; western creamery extra, 22@22 1-2c; state creamery extra, 20 to 22 1-2; state dairy extra, 21 Cheese fairly active and steady; state factory full cream white fancy, 8 5-8@8 3-4c; do colored, 8 7-8@9c. Eggs, light demand; western prime, 16 1-2@17c; new laid choice, 17 1-2c, turpentine dull and barely steady; 29 3-4@30 1-4c. Rosin quiet and steady; strained to good, $1 22@1 25. Tallow unchanged. Freights firm; grain to Liverpool, 3 1-8d.

Live Stock.

New York, July 22.—Cattle—Receipts, 320 head; excepting one car, all for export. No trading. Feeling steady. Dressed beef was steady at 7@9c per lb. Shipments to-day, 300 beeves; to-morrow, 170 beeves and 1,380 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 581 head. The market was dull and slow. Sales of veals at $5.50@6.25 per cwt., buttermilk calves and grassers at $2.00@3.00.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 6,072 head. The market for sheep was steady; lambs a shade firmer. Sheep sold at $3.50@5.75 per cwt., lambs at $5.50@6.62 1-2. Dressed mutton was steady at 7@11c per lb., and dressed lambs firmer at 8@12c.

WHEW!! BUT IT'S HOT.

Weather Man Hanner Has Something About Heat.

He Says a Fat Man is a Poor Thermometer—Other Conditions That Affect the Weather.

"Whew! but it's hot!"

This exclamation could be heard on most any of the street corners to-day.

The opinion seemed unanimous that the sun beat down with more intensity than on any other day of this season.

After hearing so much complaint about the heat, a Bee ascended to Weather Observer Hanner's sanctum, on the roof of the government building, at 11 o'clock to-day.

"How hot is it? Just exactly 86, which is, of course, in the shade," replied Mr. Hanner, glancing at a thermometer in the room.

"It must be warmer than that. A big fat man down on the corner just said it was 110, with upward indications."

"A fat man exposed to the sun is a poor thermometer. People out in the sun register a much higher temperature than mercury. But without joking, the artificial conditions have more effect upon the state of the weather, as experienced by the public, than the natural conditions.

"As with your fat man, I don't doubt in the least but what he felt a hundred and ten degrees of heat and I expect if you had looked at a thermometer near by, it would have indicated as much. Our thermometers are all under shelter, and protected from any artificial effects whatever, thereby giving a true record of the condition. It is impossible to get a correct state of the temperature by exposing a thermometer in the sun, as the refraction and radiation is more intense at one point than another.

"Then another thing, the humidity, or moisture in the air is quite a factor in promoting an intensity of heat. Take for instance when the thermometer registers 90 with a low humidity, and the next day with the same state of temperature and a high humidity, people will complain more of the heat on the second day than on the first.

"Sheltered as our thermometers are, I have known the reflection of the sun on a new tin roof over half a block away to cause the thermometer to register erroneously."

THE CITY'S LIMITS.

Solicitor Read Will Offer a Document

To the County Commissioners for Their Concurrence With Relation to the Same.

Solicitor Read has prepared a petition which he will submit to the county commissioners to-day or to-morrow, requesting that they take action indorsing the annexation of territory including Auburndale, which was passed by the council last winter.

The southern line of the territory involved begins at the city line on Broadway and extends about a mile to the County road, passing the asylum. The line continues from there to the center of the intersection of Hill avenue and Raymer street. It extends along Hill avenue to Mott avenue, thence along Mott avenue and Mott avenue extension to Dorr street, I then extends along Upton avenue to Oakwood avenue, along Oakwood avenue to Clinton and along Clinton to Clinton extension and Comstock avenue, thence to Ottawa river, and from thence to where the present city line runs into Ottawa river.

STRIPPED NAKED.

Lying Cold and Dead Out on Nebraska Avenue.

The Mysterious Case of a Man Who Has Been Wandering About the Outskirts of the City With No Clothes On.

For several days past several people out on the Nebraska avenue road beyond the city limits have seen a man roaming about in a patch of woods stark naked.

Two boys who first saw the strange creature told the tale, but they were hardly believed. Their hearers thought their story a fight of the imagination or a boyish joke.

Matters went along until the night before last, when a Polish woman residing in that vicinity, while passing along the road, saw the man walking about in an aimless way with not a stitch of clothes on his back.

Last night the same woman passed by the woods and saw a naked body lying stiff and cold under the trees.

She was scared, and for some reason or other did not tell of what she had seen until this morning, when with a party of neighbors she went to the place.

The body was still there as they had seen it last evening.

The police were notified at 8 o'clock, and the patrol wagon was immediately dispatched to the scene. Detectives Hall and Kruse were detailed on the matter.

They found the man in the little patch of woods about a mile beyond Junction avenue.

He appeared to be about 40 years old, was five feet and eight inches high and wore no mustache or beard, except a week's growth of stubble.

A pair of pants with nothing in the pockets were found near the body. The woods were searched but no other clothing was found.

The man evidently had been very sick, and was doubtless out of his mind when alive. The body was terribly emanciated and would weigh less than 100 pounds.

The body was removed to Andrie's undertaking rooms on South Erie street. The man was horribly diseased and rapidly becoming unrecognizable.

Coronerq Beckwith was notified and will hold an inquest this afternoon.

A man who answers somewhat the description of the deceased escaped from the asylum about two weeks ago. The asylum authorities will view the remains this afternoon.

From all appearances the unfortunate man died in great agony, as his body was severely scratched in consequence of his writhings.

3 o'clock—The asylum authorities viewed the remains and fail to recognize the man. The case is still shrouded in mystery.

THE ROBISON ELECTRIC ROAD.

Nine Miles from Manhattan to the Asylum for 5 cents or Ticket Fare—No Change of Cars—All Cars Run Through.

From 1 o'clock to 11 o'clock p. m. of each week day and all day on Sundays, the Huron Street and Depot Line runs through to the asylum.

There is no line in the city which presents such a varied and attractive ride. Transfers from all lines are good on this line until further notice.

Those who have not been to the asylum do not know what is there. It is worth a ride 100 miles to see the grounds alone. Talk of parks—one million and a half of dollars expended by the state. The grounds are beautiful.

The German Pioneer society's excursion to Put-in-Bay yesterday was successful. Over five hundred of the members and their families enjoyed the ride. Returning, the company engaged in songs, and a royal time was had. The committee on arrangements did their work well, and are entitled to the thanks which were freely bestowed.

Friends of H. W. Marshall, who died from injuries received on the railroad near the Air Line Junction a few days since, are investigating the cause of his death. It is said the man was allowed to die from sheer loss of blood, which, if he had been looked for when he was missed from the train, might have been prevented. According to the stories in circulation, the case will bear looking into.

THE ROBISON ELECTRIC ROAD.

Nine Miles from Manhattan to the Asylum for 5 cents or Ticket Fare—No Change of Cars—All Cars Run Through.

From 1 o'clock to 11 o'clock p. m. of each week day and all day on Sundays, the Huron Street and Depot Line runs through to the asylum.

There is no line in the city which presents such a varied and attractive ride. Transfers from all lines are good on this line until further notice.

Those who have not been to the asylum do not know what is there. It is worth a ride 100 miles to see the grounds alone. Talk of parks—one million and a half of dollars expended by the state. The grounds are beautiful.

JAMES J. ROBISON,
General Manager.

Toledo, O., July 22, 1892.

THINGS WORTH REMEMBERING.

When you feel a kind of goneness about the stomach it is a sign that your food does not sit well and that you are about to have a fit of indigestion.

When you begin to feel nervous and are unable to sit still comfortably; when your clothes suddenly seem to lose their fit and become too tight in places the fit of indigestion is surely upon you.

When this fit of indigestion is repeated from day to day it finally resolves itself into dyspepsia.

Remember that three to ten of Brandreth's Pills will cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia, or both, and that a regular course of them, say two every night for a week or ten days, will act as a preventive of either complaint.

Isaac D. Smead & Co. have during the past week been awarded contracts to introduce the Smead system of warming and ventilation in two school buildings at Fort Wayne, Ind.; one at Kalamazoo, one at Holdrege, Neb.; one at Tarkio, Mo.; one at Elyria, O.; Territorial university, Oklahoma; Baker university, Baldwin, Kan.; school building, Joplin, Mo.; school building at Findlay, O.; school building, Montpelier, O.

A GREAT DROP | Professor G. J. Burk, the most daring aeronaut of the day, will make one of his flights above the clouds in his mammoth balloon at 5 o'clock each afternoon, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 22, 23 and 24, at Marengo Park. Steamer W. R. Burt will leave Jefferson street dock each day.

20 extra cars will be put on the Indiana avenue line on Saturday for the benefit of the patrons of the Robison road, to Barnum's circus.

KOKOLENE | Most refreshing in the bath.

The steamer J. K. Secor can be chartered to go to Put-in-Bay or Middle Bass any evening after the arrival of trains, for $20, by applying to C. Conshard, secretary, Port Clinton, O.

READ HIS OWN OBITUARY.

Mr. Albert Owens is a prominent young farmer near Winnebago City, Minn. He spent hundreds of dollars in endeavoring to recover from nervous prostration, and a year ago was so low that a report of his death reached the editor of the Winnebago Press News. An obituary of Mr. Owens appeared in that paper, and was read by him. While in this condition he began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies, and in a short time was a well man. Says he never felt better than now.

MARENGO PARK | Is attracting crowds of visitors daily. It is the coolest, most delightful spot near Toledo. Steamer Burt goes there four times every day. Fare round trip, only 20c.
